'I Pledge Allegiance'

... And Lisa Ryan, 4,

Becomes a Citizen

KINGSTON

She is only four years old but the Pledge of Allegiance rolls easily off her tongue.

Little Vietnamese-born Lisa Vui Ryan of Saugerties practiced the pledge well in eager anticipation of becoming a U.S. citizen during Thursday's naturalization ceremonies at the Ulster County Court House.

Forty-five persons take oath of allegiance at naturalization proceedings. Story on page 13.

Exuding the love that she has come to know as the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryan, the Vietnamese orphan chatted amicably before the ceremonies were to begin. Conversing with her Canadian-born adopted mother, Chris Ryan, who herself became a naturalized citizen just about the time Lisa was born, the youngster talked of the big plans for herself.

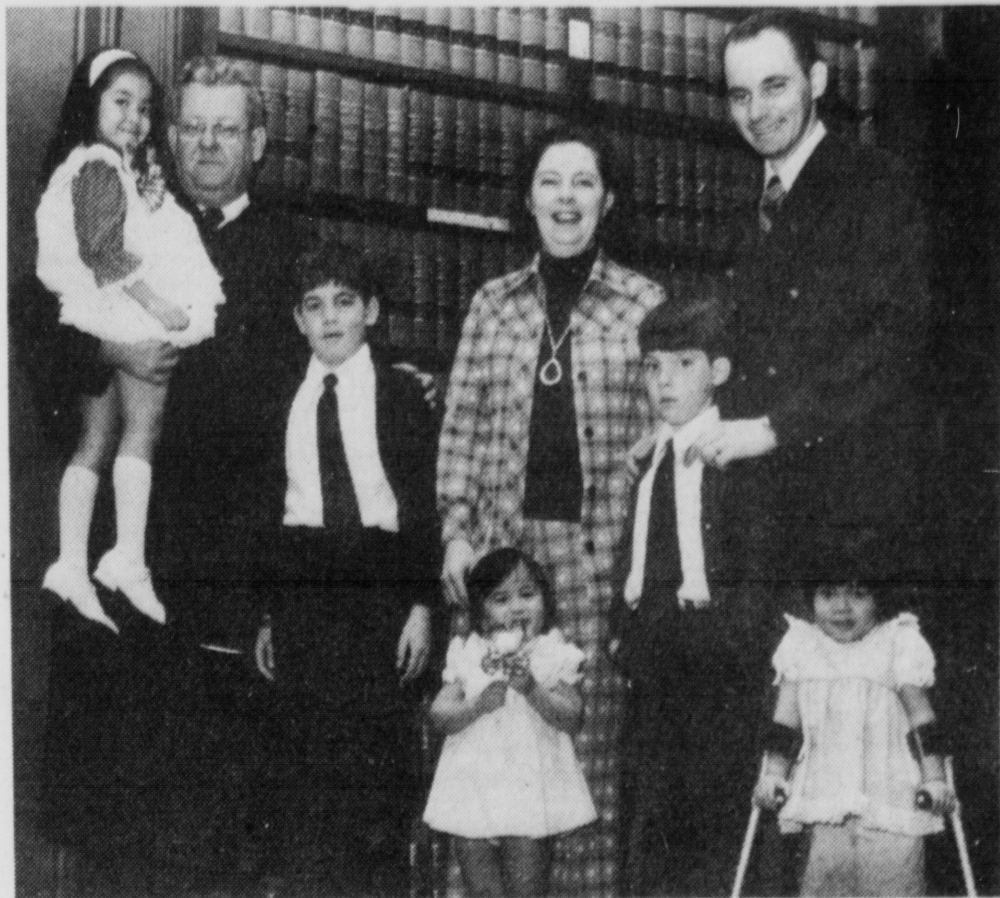

First there will be her fifth birthday to celebrate April 28, then there is Girl Scouts to look forward to some day. Lisa has even picked out a career for herself. She wants to be a nurse ... or, a doctor.

Proud of the honor that was to be Lisa's, the Ryans, their two sons, Michael, 10½ and Ricky, 7 were there to see her become an American citizen. Wide-eyed and wondering too, were Kim, 3 and Noelle, 3, two more little Vietnamese girls the Ryans adopted after Lisa.

Kim came to the Ryans at the age of nine months and Noelle arrived last June, the victim of polio and severe malnutrition. Noelle, hobbling into the court room with the aid of crutches, only began walking for the first time in her life six weeks ago.

Although the extent of the damage done by malnutrition is not yet completely known, Mrs. Ryan said, little Noelle views the world with cheeriness and seems to have a ready smile.

The Ryans have been deeply involved for a number of years in the plight of children from the war-ravaged country and are the founders of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of Children of Vietnam and have personally sent hundreds of pounds of clothing, food and toys to orphanages in Southeast Asia.

Judge Robert C. Williams (L) holds Lisa Ryan, 4, our newest American citizen. On hand for the happy occasion were Michael, 10; Chris Ryan, Ricky, 7; Joseph Ryan and two other little Vietnamese girls the Ryans adopted (L) Kim, 3 and Noelle, 3. (Freeman photo)

JOHN CONNALLY IS ALL SMILES

(UPI)

Connally May Return to Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally, acquitted on charges he accepted payoffs of $10,000, is considering re-entering political life some day.

A four-man, eight-woman federal court jury deliberated for six hours and 45 minutes Thursday before clearing the former Texas governor of charges he accepted cash in 1971 from milk producer lobbyist Jake Jacobsen for helping win higher government milk price supports.

The tall, silver-haired Connally, his family, and his defense lawyers all burst into a round of bear hugs, back slapping, kisses, smiles and tears after the jury foreman read the verdict.

His wife, Nellie, the only one of the four Connally women who didn't cry, nodded her head and whispered audibly,

"Oh, thank you!" Later she squeezed her husband's arm and said to him, "Now everyone knows what we know."

In freeing Connally, the jury rejected Jacobsen's testimony that he paid Connally $5,000 on each of two visits to his Treasury Department office and later conspired with him to cover up the transaction.

Edward Bennett Williams, Connally's lawyer, had called Jacobsen "a perjurer, a swindler and a scoundrel" who "bore false witness" against Connally to get a light sentence and to cover up for pocketing the cash himself.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. told the jurors they must scrutinize carefully the testimony of an informer such as Jacobsen. The jury, apparently taking Hart's advice, called for a full transcript of Jacobsen's testimony during its deliberations.

The first question newsmen asked Connally as he emerged smiling from the courthouse with Nellie on his arm was about his political future.

"I won't think about it for some time, but I hope I never lose a desire to be involved in political affairs," he replied.

When asked if that wasn't a strong indication he would re-enter politics, he replied with a grin: "I've already said enough."

More than 50 reporters and 100 spectators who had waited throughout the afternoon in the courthouse were surprised when the verdict came. They had expected that the 5:43 p.m. courtroom session would bring only an announcement that the jury was breaking its deliberations for dinner.

Connally, who had read the Bible during the day of deliberations, remained stone faced as the foreman said in a firm voice: "We find the defendant not guilty."

But as soon as the jury left the room, Williams rushed forward and gave Mrs. Connally a big hug and a kiss. Then he clutched Connally. Connally embraced his wife, his daughter, Sharon, and his two daughters-in-law while his two sons gave him hearty slaps on the back.

"I suppose we never felt like there could be any outcome but this, but they made us worry about it for some time this afternoon," Connally said.

Connally was touted as a leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination until a year ago when he was indicted on bribery charges.

The government's case was based almost entirely on Jacobsen's testimony. He said that Connally asked for the money after he had helped American Milk Producers Inc. win higher price supports for milk from the Nixon administration.

Jacobsen told of meeting Connally twice and giving him the money. Two years later as Watergate investigators probed the case, Jacobsen said Connally twice gave him batches of $10,000 as part of an elaborate plot to cover up the alleged payoffs.

Williams said Jacobsen fabricated the story to get a light sentence in the milk case, and to escape prosecution in an unrelated Texas bank fraud case. He contended that the milk lobbyist, on the brink of bankruptcy in Texas, pocketed the cash.

Phnom Penh Civilians Are Ordered Evacuated

By United Press International

The victorious Khmer Rouge ordered the evacuation of the civilian population of Phnom Penh today in fear the city might be bombed or shelled by die-hard government holdouts, the French radio reported.

An unconfirmed report by diplomatic sources in Saigon said an air force pilot of the former government bombed the radio transmitter just south of Phnom Penh Thursday afternoon.

Related Indochina stories on page 24.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk was quoted today in Peking as saying Khieu Samphan, leader of the Khmer Rouge and deputy premier of Sihanouk's government in exile, will make a policy statement soon as head of the Royal Government of National Union of Cambodia.

A host of nations began recognizing the new Cambodian government without waiting for its statement, including all members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations—Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and the Philippines. Laos also recognized the new regime.

Sihanouk, titular head of the Khmer Rouge, received congratulations today from Mao Tse-tung, President Tito, Yasser Arafat, King Hussein of Jordan and the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda on the fall of Phnom Penh.

Diplomatic sources in Saigon and Bangkok said it was believed that the former government headed by Prime Minister Long Boret still was in control of several provincial cities, particularly in the northwest near the border of Thailand.

But the whereabouts of Long Boret remained a mystery. Cambodian sources in Bangkok said he was captured while trying to board a helicopter to fly to Thailand, but there was no confirmation. Long Boret was one of the officials on the rebels' death list.

Gen. Sak Sutsakhan, the last acting president and armed forces commander, arrived early today at U Tapao airbase in Thailand, sources in Bangkok said. They said he got out barely five minutes ahead of the Communist-led rebels.

The French radio said the population of Phnom Penh was streaming out of the Mekong River city into the surrounding countryside although the Khmer Rouge gave no hint who was threatening the city with bombs or shells.

Some French radio stations said the Khmer Rouge, who captured the city Thursday, wanted to clear the capital of its refugee-swollen population so as to be free to gain control over administrative services. The Khmer Rouge also may wish to let the population return only after a thorough check, according to the broadcasts.

Although the new government leaders made no official announcement, Sihanouk told the Japan Broadcasting Company that the Phnom Penh regime would follow a neutralist foreign policy.

Cambodia technically has been neutral since its independence in 1953. The new government was expected to follow a left-leaning neutrality.

Sihanouk said today he would return to Phnom Penh in about one month to serve as head of state, the Japanese Kyodo News Service reported from Peking.

Kyodo said Sihanouk made known his future plans and his governments political stance in a 50-minute meeting with Daisaku Ikeda, head of Japan's Sokagakkai neo-Buddhist religious organization.

Ikeda quoted Sihanouk as saying his mother, Queen Sisowath Kossamak, is seriously ill and he will not be able to return to the Cambodian capital for about one month.

Kyodo said Sihanouk denounced the United States as "the only nation threatening world peace." He added the Soviet Union is afraid of the United States and therefore it always advocates detente with Washington.

Foreign diplomats, correspondents and relief workers caught in the capital, including some Americans, were holed up in the Hotel Le Phnom under Red Cross protection.

The International Red Cross in Geneva lost radio contact with the hotel Wednesday but later received word that "all is well."

The United States evacuated most Americans last weekend in a Marine airlift to the aircraft carrier Okinawa circling in the nearby Gulf of Siam.

The Khmer Rouge pledged the new regime would be neutralist and bar foreign bases on Cambodian territory. But diplomatic sources in Saigon predicted a left-leaning neutrality.

Thailand sealed its border with Cambodia, but at least 140 desperate refugees managed to flee to safety by flying over the frontier in a variety of aircraft.

At least two toppled cabinet members—Foreign Minister Keuky Lim and Cultural Minister Long Botta—reached Bangkok. Some unconfirmed reports said Prime Minister Long Boret also reached the Thai capital.

Green Up Week in the City

The Frog Alley Ruins may be beyond repair, but a group of Kingston residents is making them more attractive as part of the officially proclaimed Green Up Week in Kingston. An idea of Mrs. Edwin Ford, chairman of Friends of Historic Kingston, the week is prior to the observance of the 198th anniversary of the adoption of the first New York State Constitution, with ceremonies

Concord and Lexington Re-lived

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — It all began 200 years ago tonight.

On April 18, 1775, shortly after 10:30 p.m., two lanterns appeared in the steeple of Boston's Old North Church. Paul Revere and William Dawes set out on their famous midnight ride to Lexington and Concord to warn rebel colonists that the British were coming.

At 5 a.m., April 19, 700 British regulars met 130 Minutemen on Lexington Green, 10 miles northwest of Boston.

"Lay down your arms, you damned rebels and disperse!" shouted Captain John Pitcarin.

"Stand your ground!" Captain John Parker replied to his men. "Don't fire unless fired upon. But if they mean to have a war, let it begin here."

A moment later someone fired "The Shot Heard Round the World" and the American Revolution was on.

President Ford will mark the official beginning of America's Bicentennial at a special service tonight at the Old North Church to commemorate the hanging of the lanterns.

At Concord and Lexington

Saturday the President will participate in wreath laying ceremonies to honor the eight Minutemen killed during the initial engagement at Lexington Green and the two who died in the ensuing volleys Concord's North Bridge. Three British troops died at the bridge.

Fire Damages Stony Run Apartments

KINGSTON

The occupants of 12 apartments were driven from their homes early today as fire swept through a portion of Building No. 4 at Stony Run Apartments, causing extensive damage to all the units in the building.

Five persons, apparently including some elderly men or women, had to be rescued from third floor balconies of the three-story building. Firemen brought them down on ladders, and none of the occupants of the building were injured.

Meanwhile, in another early morning fire, eight persons were left homeless as fire swept through three cottages in Woodstock. Four persons in one of the buildings "just barely escaped," according to a spokesman for the Woodstock Fire Department, and one man, who was not identified, sustained minor burns.

Kingston fire fighters were called out to Stony Run on Hurley Avenue at 1:42 a. m. Firemen said, that when they arrived at the scene heavy smoke was pouring from second and third floor windows on the northeast corner of the building. The aerial ladder and other ladders were put into service to bring down those stranded on third floor balconies.

The blaze, firemen said, apparently originated in the bedroom closet of a second floor apartment occupied by Marvin Skolnik. From there it travelled into the bedroom and upwards to the bedroom of a third floor apartment. Fire damage was confined to those areas, fire fighters said, but extensive smoke and water damage was reported throughout the building.

Efforts were underway today by the management of the apartment complex to relocate those driven out by the fire in other apartments. "Some of them lost everything," said a spokeswoman for the management.

Two firemen sustained minor injuries in battling the blaze. Fire men said the cause could not be immediately determined.

In Woodstock, volunteers were called out at about 4 a. m. to what was originally reported to be a brush fire on Tannery Brook Road. However, on arrival they found that three cottages were involved in flames. Officials said the blaze, of undetermined origin, started in one bungalow occupied by four persons and spread to two nearby buildings, all of which were owned by Robert Ricken of Woodstock. The names of the occupants were not available.

Economist Says Recession Will End 'About Now'

By UPI

The nation's worst recession since the Great Depression is just about over, economist Irwin Kellner said today. But, he added, it still will be a rough year for workers.

Kellner said evidence of the end to the long slump was apparent in the reasons for the 10.4 percent plunge in the gross national product (GNP) during the first three months of the year.

"It was very encouraging," Kellner said. "Unlike the fourth quarter of 1974, when drop in the GNP was traced solely to the collapse in sales, this time around sales rose and there was a massive workdown of business inventories.

"In the fourth quarter, businessmen accumulated inventories at an $18 billion annual rate. This shifted downward to an $18 billion liquidation pace in the last three months.

"In other words, there was a net swing of $36 billion in business inventory accumulation, and that clearly more than accounted for the drop in the GNP."

In addition, he said, there was a increase in sales.

Kellner, who earlier forecast a positive growth in the GNP after July, now believes there will be a positive economic growth in April, May and June.

"I expect the recession to end about now," he said. "But I hasten to add that although the economy has bottomed out and recovery may be under way, it will not be apparent to the man on the street for some time yet because he looks closely at unemployment."

Kellner, an economist at Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, said the unemployment rate, now at a nationwide level of 8.7 percent, would climb to 9.5 percent this year before it starts to decline.

"Businessmen are reluctant to hire new workers as soon as they experience a recovery because they are not sure it is permanent and because they would like to restore efficiency to their operations."

"Also, the public jumps back in to the labor market faster than new jobs open up. The combination of slower growth of demand for workers and a faster increase in supply will tend to keep the unemployment rate climbing well into autumn."

The recession entered the record books as the longest — 15 months — since the Depression of the 1930s with the fifth consecutive quarterly decline during the first three months of this year. The sharp plunge in the first quarter was the worst since the nation dismantled its war machinery in 1946.

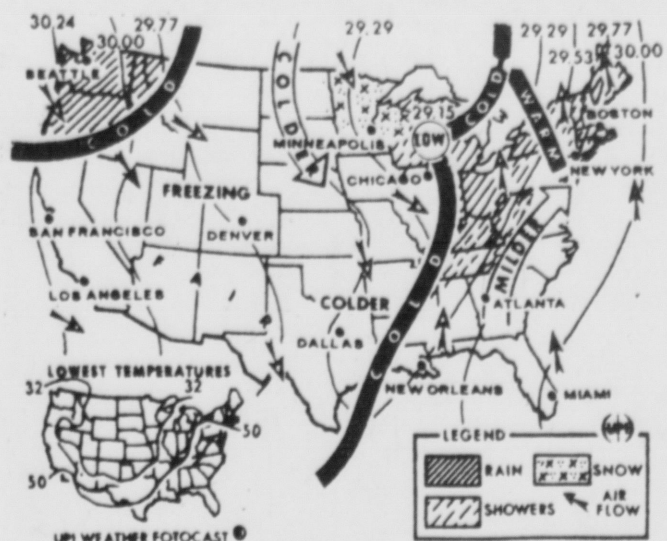

Among other indications pointing to recovery:

• The Federal Reserve said the nation's monetary supply — cash in hand and in checking accounts — rose 5.5 percent to an average of $287.3 billion in the last four weeks. The economy cannot grow — new jobs cannot be created — without a growth rate in the money supply which, until recently, was not growing at all, growing only slightly or declining.

• First National City Bank of New York said a survey of 1,417 persons shows that consumers are gaining confidence in the economy. Strong consumer confidence promotes greater spending, another key necessity for recovery.

Citibank said 39.4 percent felt the economy would improve within six months to a year.

• The stock market registered its eighth consecutive gain in the third heaviest trading session in New York Stock Exchange history. The Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.75 to 819.46, the highest close in nine months.

Mistrial Declared In Auto Suit

KINGSTON
A mistrial was declared shortly after noon Thursday in Ulster County Supreme Court in a $2 million automobile negligence suit brought by the mother of a teenage girl who, according to court testimony, was "rendered a vegetable" as the result of a two-car accident on Dec. 17, 1972 on East Chester Street Ext. about 2:30 a.m.

Judge Arthur Davis declared the mistrial after a five-man, one-woman jury deliberated more than 10 hours and was reportedly deadlocked by a vote of four to two.

The action was brought by Caroline Bonelli of Saugerties, on behalf of her daughter, Pauline, who is now a resident at a New Paltz Nursing Home. Defendants in the suit were Miss Bonelli's cousin, William Bonelli; John Bonelli of Saugerties; Calvin J. Park of Poughkeepsie, L. C. T. N. Auto Leasing Corp. and Interstate Security Services, Inc. Miss Bonelli was a passenger in the Bonelli car at the time it was in collision with the Park vehicle. Park is a security guard.

Mrs. Bonelli and her daughter were represented by Abraham Shapiro.

The defendants were represented by Gerald Grogan and Russell Leggett.

No decision has yet been reached as to whether or not the case will be retried.

THE BRITISH VERSION

(UPI)

A Real Flying Saucer

CARDINGTON, England (UPI) — The flying saucer is for real — and stamped "made in Britain."

Its first flight was hardly impressive. It lifted off, wobbled along for a few hundred feet and dropped to the floor.

But its makers say better things are to come.

The model that flew Thursday inside a giant hangar on the Royal Air Force Base looked just like the flying saucers of the old space movies: 30 feet around and 9½ feet high, with a rim of portholes around the edge.

John West, head of the firm which designed it, said it was a prototype of what will someday be a 700-foot craft capable of hauling 400 tons of cargo thousands of miles.

"It's not a gimmick," West said.

The "Skyship," in fact, is a radically designed balloon propelled by eight miniature electric motors driving six-inch plastic propellers.

Helium-filled bags filled inside the saucer's white sailcloth skin provided the lift, and a remote control "pilot" maneuvered the craft up, down, forward, backward and even sideways.

"Any basic design must take into account the problems you're trying to solve," West said. "Only a saucer design can satisfactorily solve the problems of the airship we have in mind."

"Its role is to lift up goods and take them right to the site where they're used. It doesn't need ports, airports, harbors, major roads, any infrastructure. It's ecologically sound — little noise, almost no pollution, great fuel economy."

West said he hoped the first cargo-carrying "Skyship," a 200-foot diameter version with a payload of 10 tons, would be flying in a couple of years.

His team already is busy on plans for one 700 feet in diameter that could carry 400 tons for 3,500 miles at a speed of 90 miles per hour.

That's slow for an aircraft, but West said he prefers to think of it this way: it's mighty fast for a ship.

Special Heads Emmy Nominees

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "QB VII," a special dramatizing Leon Uris' novel, drew the most Emmy award nominations Thursday, taking 13, and "M-A-S-H," the black comedy of blood and hanky panky in a Korean war Army hospital, led the series ranks with 11.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and the special "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom," drew nine each.

The nominations were made by the 1,200 members of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, and the winners, to be picked by select committees, will be made public in televised award ceremonies May 19.

"M-A-S-H" was nominated for best comedy series, and won nominations for Alan Alda as best actor, Loretta Switt as best supporting actress and MacLean Stevenson as best supporting actor in a comedy series.

Competitors in the comedy series category are "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," its spinoff "Rhoda," and "All in the Family."

Opposing "QB VII" for best special of the year are "The Law," "Missiles of October," "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom" and "Love Among the Ruins," which drew best actor and actress nominations for its stars, Laurence Olivier and Katharine Hepburn.

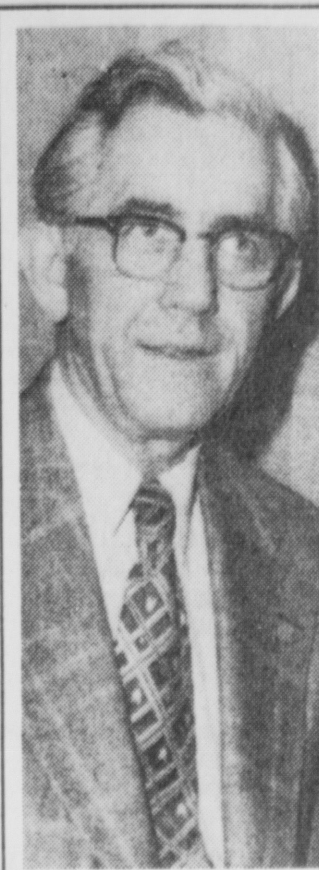

Nominees for the best dramatic series were dominated by police shows: "The Streets of San Francisco," "Police Story," "Kojack," "The Waltons" and the British-made "Upstairs, Downstairs."

"QB VII" was nominated for best special and drew nominations for Jack Hawkins Anthony Quayle, Juliet Mills and Lee Remick as best supporting actors and actresses and in other categories.

Nominated for best actress in a dramatic series were Angie Dickinson of "Police Woman," Michael Learned of "The Waltons," and Jean Marsh of "Upstairs, Downstairs."

Four of the five nominations for best actor in a dramatic series went to men playing detectives — Karl Malden of "The Streets of San Francisco," Robert Blake of "Baretta," Telly Savalas of "Kojack" and Barry Newman of "Petrocelli."

"Queen of the Stardust Ballroom," a special about a romance between an older man and woman, won best actor and actress nominations for its stars Maureen Stapleton and Charles Durning.

Forces on Alert Around Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — Edgy Palestinian guerrillas and rightwing militiamen put their forces on alert today after a new round of fighting temporarily shattered their shaky truce and left more than a dozen people dead or injured.

Despite the violations, the government-arranged cease-fire ending four days of warfare appeared to be holding again in most parts of the city.

Police said at least 10 persons were killed and several more injured in an outbreak of bombings, snipings, machinegun and mortar attacks Thursday.

The new casualties brought the estimated toll in five days of fighting between the Palestinians and Lebanese Phalangists to 145 dead and more than 250 wounded.

Both sides, wary of further attacks, ordered a state of alert and manned roadblocks around their respective areas of the city today.

Beirut remained shuttered, its streets deserted of all but steel-helmeted security forces patrolling intersections in armored cars.

Residents of the battered, rubble-strewn capital ventured out Thursday for the first time since the clashes began Sunday, but quickly retreated inside again with the newest outbreak of violence.

Heavy fighting with mortars and machineguns erupted for about an hour Thursday in a residential district near central Beirut.

Occasional bursts of gunfire could be heard elsewhere in the city.

A bomb blew apart a clothing store a block away from Beirut's fashionable Hamra street after another blast wrecked a store in the southern port city of Sidon two hours earlier, witnesses said.

The incidents were the most serious reported violations of the cease-fire that went into effect Wednesday night. Premier Rashid Solh, who arranged the truce, appealed for law and order in a nationwide radio broadcast.

A Palestinian guerrilla spokesman said he believed the cease-fire would hold, although not without further violations.

Ford's Federal Agency Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will ask Congress to gradually do away with some major federal regulatory agencies and believes this could save each American family about $2,000 a year, aides said today.

Targeted for elimination by Ford were such agencies as the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board, they said.

The aides said Ford planned to announce later today at a White House sponsored conference in Concord, N.H., that he will send proposals to Congress in 30 to 45 days aimed at deregulating much air, truck and railroad transport.

According to Ford, there are too many federal agencies, regulating too much, spending too much and adding too much to consumer costs. He believes some of the agencies were set up for reform purposes but have outlived their usefulness.

He wants Congress to eliminate them not with a legislative guillotine but by phasing them out.

It is part of an overall reform of regulatory agencies which, according to government economists, would mean up to $2,000 a year saving to America's 135 million families through lower federal taxes and lower consumer costs.

Here are some examples, cited by White House aides, of the type of agency regulation the President wants wiped out:

—Trucking: Under current ICC regulations a Texas farmer who sends a truckload of strawberries to Chicago can bring the truck back loaded only with raw farm products. Often the truck returns empty, and the farmer's cost and the strawberry eater's costs are boosted.

—Air: The CAB sets fares for airlines operating across state lines. Under its rules, an interstate airline such as TWA must charge a fixed fare for a Los Angeles to San Francisco ticket that is 40 percent higher than charged for the same trip by an airline doing all its flying within California.

Ford's aides said past efforts at such reform have been blocked by lobbyists in Washington.

Ford decided to speak on the subject personally in hopes of rousing enough popular support so congressmen could ignore lobbyist pressure.

New Law Enforces The Right to Know

KINGSTON

You wouldn't keep giving raises to a secretary who refused to let you see copies of your own letter and you wouldn't do business with a bank that never let you see your own bank statement, would you?

The New York Public Interest Research Group thinks it is "really amazing that New York State taxpayers have allowed government agencies to treat public records like private property for so long."

Until recently, most public records in New York were about as accessible as the White House tapes. Citizens in search of information contained in supposedly public documents encountered enormous obstacles—both legal and practical.

However the state's new Freedom of Information Law which went into effect in September 1974 opens state and local files to public scrutiny, but has caused widespread confusion among agencies and citizens.

In order to alleviate the confusion, the research group has produced a booklet designed to advise citizens of their newly-acquired rights under the law and to help them exercise them.

The guide was written to answer the most commonly-asked questions and includes information on:

- Why such a law is needed.
- What records are included.
- How to go about getting the records.
- What to do if you are told "no."
- How you can get help if you have trouble.

Before the law went into effect, citizens had no right to examine most records which their public employees kept, not even those relating specifically to their own affairs.

Governmental agencies have traditionally intimidated many people and they are often loathe to change old patterns of behavior; therefore the research group, an advocacy organization concerned with governmental accountability, feels it is important for citizens to be aware of their rights and to insist on them.

The research group is funded and directed by college and university students and is headed by a former colleague of Ralph Nader, attorney Donald K. Ross.

For most people the accessibility of public records is an academic matter until the day they need information and suddenly find out how difficult it is to get.

There are several kinds of situations in which it becomes important to look at or obtain a copy of a public record.

Perhaps the most common is when you need a copy of your own personal papers, such as a birth certificate. A second is when you want to find out what happened in a particular court case, what action was taken at a meeting of a local school board, what decision was made on an application for a zoning change, or whether a candidate for the legislature filed the campaign statements which the law requires.

Also, a person might want to see how a particular agency is operating, to look at an internal audit of a town board or look at the staff manual that the county welfare department uses in determining who is eligible for welfare help.

What the Freedom of Information Law says in a nutshell is that state and local government offices must let you look at certain records (for free) and must make transcripts of them at your request (for which they may charge a fee).

A big problem with the law is that it doesn't say that all records are open and does not define "record", but it does specify nine categories of "records that are available."

They are:

- Opinions and orders in cases.
- Statements of policy and interpretation, plus any documents or tables which led to the statements.
- Minutes of meetings and public hearings.
- Audits and tabulations made by or for the agency.
- Instructions to staff (including manuals) if they affect the public.
- Police blotters and booking records.

Booklets on "Your Right to Know" are available from the New York Public Interest Research Group, 5 Beekman Street, New York City, N.Y. 10038.

'Easy Money' Mail Suspension

KINGSTON

The United States Post Office is denying further use of the mails to a nationwide "easy money" mail order house whose mail order scheme has victimized 65 persons so far.

According to Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk, the firm, operated by an Ernest Tucker, taking advantage of the recession, advertised a "certified notarized and documented method" in national magazines with claims of teaching "any man or woman my proven easy money secret of starting from scratch and making a fortune practically overnight."

The material included such other assurances as "definitely not a con game, franchise, investment scheme or gimmick . . . your opportunity to live high on the hog and do less work . . . fresh guaranteed mail order buyers." It said the same method enabled the firm's owner "to make $35,000 in just one day at home in bed with the flu."

Newkirk said that to date he knows of no one in the Ulster County area who has been victimized by the Unique Ideas scheme but there have been a number of cases of a similar nature here. When one occurs, he writes the case up and passes the information on to the postal inspection service. "They do catch up with them once in awhile," Newkirk said, in spite of the fact that easy money operators change their locations often.

In the case of Unique Ideas, a hearing was conducted before Edward F. Lussier, postal judicial officer in order to determine the validity of complaints of false representation against the firm.

It was determined that from a known 39 people purchasing his material, Tucker received $4,631. The purchasers then invested an additional $2,961 in postage to mail more than 36,000 advertising circulars. From this effort, three orders materialized totaling $62.75. The testimony of 26 other dissatisfied customers brought the total orders up to eight out of some 76,000 mailings.

The judicial officer held that "some exaggeration and puffing is perhaps to be expected in sales, but when the truth is so distorted that it can no longer be recognized, the public's right to protection surpasses any claim that the targets of the promotion should have known better."

Victims sent the firm up to $325 each for advertising circulars displaying earrings and artificial flowers made of bits of mink and sable. These products were to be sold using pre-addressed mailing labels supplied by Unique Ideas, Inc., which was to receive half of the money realized.

Bruce Miller Named Kingston Town Justice

TOWN OF KINGSTON

Bruce A. Miller of Sawkill, has been named town justice in the Town of Kingston, according to announcement made by Supervisor Kenneth J. Whispell.

Miller fills a vacancy created by the recent resignation of Justice Robert Ferrigan who has been appointed criminal investigator for Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt's office.

Miller is a life resident of Ulster County and has resided in the Town of Kingston for the past nine years.

He is a graduate of Bryant College, Providence, R. I., where he received a bachelor of science degree in business administration and he attended Albany Law School for two years.

Miller has worked in the law offices of Walter J. Miller (his late father) and the law firm of Connelly and Connelly. He was a legal investigator for the law office of Alfred E. Schelider in Goshen.

A registered Republican for 27 years, he was deputy county clerk in Ulster County for five years serving as a clerk of the Supreme and Ulster County Courts.

He has been an employee of IBM for the past nine years and resides with his wife, Janet on Route 2, Kingston.

Appeal for Southeast Asia

KINGSTON
An urgent appeal for contributions to the International Red Cross relief operation in Southeast Asia is being made by Oakley C. Maynard, chapter chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Americans who wish to contribute cash donations for the International Red Cross emergency effort to support refugee operations in South Vietnam and Cambodia may send checks to their local Red Cross chapter payable to the American Red Cross and earmarked for Southeast Asia relief.

In announcing the appeal, American Red Cross President George M. Elsey said that "the tragic developments in South Vietnam and Cambodia, including extensive movement of civilian populations causing immense suffering to an estimated eight million persons, resulted in the International Red Cross increasing its original appeal to national Red Cross societies and governments from $5 million to $35 million.

The American Red Cross sent $100,000 to the International Red Cross late last week as an emergency response, but it is now clear that much more will be needed to help support refugee operations in South Vietnam and Cambodia, Maynard said.

Elsey pointed out that "the South Vietnamese Red Cross is planning to assist at least 500,000 newly displaced persons during the next three months and reports indicate that the South Vietnamese Red Cross will provide immediate care for thousands of displaced persons now en route by sea from the north to the island of Phu-Quoc in the southeast portion of South Vietnam, where reception of refugees is being arranged."

The South Vietnamese Red Cross, he continued, has medical and relief teams, as well as youth groups, trained to convey and supervise the distribution of food, shelter and cooking utensils to the refugees moving south on foot and by trucks, planes and boats to escape hostilities. Some supplies have been airlifted from Saigon to Nha Trang by a plane placed at the disposal of the Red Cross by the New Zealand government.

The International Red Cross team of specialists in disaster relief, medical care and tracing of missing persons will leave for Saigon shortly, Elsey reports, to supplement International Red Cross staff already at work assisting refugees.

In Cambodia, International Red Cross medical and relief assistance has been adapted to meet changing situations, while assistance to an increasing number of displaced persons continues and additional supplies of milk powder are being flown in to augment high protein feeding programs for young children.

While International Red Cross is at work helping the millions of refugees in Southeast Asia, American Red Cross volunteers and staff have been assisting with the arrival of over 1,300 Vietnamese orphans.

The Fall of Cambodia ... An American Black Eye?

Editors note: UPI correspondent Robert Kaylor covered the final days of the Cambodian war until the evacuation of American officials and has made numerous visits to the country since the start of the war there in 1970.

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodia's fall after five years of being kept in the Indochina war by the United States is not expected to have earth-shaking repercussions, but some people who were close to it see the way in which the end came as a black eye for American foreign policy.

They believe that it did not have to come in a final clash of arms with insurgents fighting their way into the city that prolonged the suffering of the war.

In the hard world of international power politics, Cambodia was an insignificant country of 7 million people no bigger than the state of Missouri. It was an unwitting pawn on the chessboard. It had no real control over its own destiny.

In addition to the toll of human suffering, the United States spent up to $1.6 million a day, or a total of roughly $2 billion to keep the Phnom Penh government alive. The totals of war casualties as well as dollar costs are small compared to Vietnam, but they are still high.

The aid did not prevent defeat during five years of fighting that saw the government's military position slowly but steadily erode. A few days before the end, American diplomats in Phnom Penh had to pick up and leave aboard helicopters under escort of Marines.

"What a way for the United States to go," said one U.S. official involved in the evacuation, shaking his head sadly. Ambassador John Gunther Dean and other senior Phnom Penh Embassy officials steadfastly refused to discuss the political situation in Cambodia, or U.S. policy directives related to it, in the declining days of the war.

But in an embassy of 200 people in the small-town atmosphere of Phnom Penh whose staff is in daily contact with diplomats of other countries and Cambodian officials, it is almost impossible to keep views from percolating to the outside.

It is known that the American Embassy in Phnom Penh over the past year made several assessments that the prospects for survival of the Cambodian government were hopeless. The Embassy urged more flexibility in policy that could allow for an orderly and negotiated settlement of the war. Whether the Embassy recommendations could have resulted in a sooner end to war casualties and to the misery of hungry and malnourished refugees may never be known. (In Washington, senior American officials insisted that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger tried in vain on several occasions to get negotiations started.)

One of the major stumbling blocks to negotiations — and some people believe to the upgrading of the Cambodian war effort as well — was continued U.S. support of the ineffective and corruption-riddled regime of Field Marshal Lon Nol, the man who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk in 1970.

Dean, an experienced negotiator who played a key role in shaping peace protocols that have proven workable in Laos, is known to have been less than impressed with Lon Nol's ability to lead the country and frequently frustrated in attempts to prod the marshal's minions into action.

When Lon Nol finally agreed to leave during the final days before the fall of the capital, it was the Cambodians themselves along with pressure from other Asian nations that got him out. Senior Cambodian officials said the United States offered no encouragement.

By then, the time for negotiations had passed and the end was a foregone conclusion.

"If Lon Nol had left eight or nine months ago, perhaps something could have been done," said one source who watched the situation closely. "As it was, it was already too late."

PRINCE SIHANOUK

Some of the World's Least Known Men

By UPI

The men who now assume power in Phnom Penh are among the world's least known leaders.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the charismatic former chief of state, is the official head of the Cambodian Royal Government of National Union (called GRUNK, from its French acronym).

But others hold the power. Sihanouk and his ailing prime minister, Penn Nouth, are expected to stay in exile in Peking for the foreseeable future while other GRUNK members enter the Cambodian capital.

These men appear to hold the power behind the new Cambodian government:

—Khieu Samphan: The best known and one of the most powerful members of the new administration. He is expected to act as prime minister of GRUNK, although his official title is deputy prime minister and defense minister.

The 44-year-old French-trained economist and Communist is known as one of "the three ghosts," who fell out with Sihanouk in 1967 and disappeared from Phnom Penh.

Khieu Samphan is a bachelor and ostentatiously honest. He briefly served as minister of economy under Sihanouk and was well known in Phnom Penh because he rode to and from work on a bicycle and lived in a small room.

—HOU YOUN: The second "ghost" will be minister of interior in Khieu Samphan's government. A leftist prior to his 1967 break with Sihanouk, Hou Youn now is believed to be a dedicated Communist of the pro-Peking bloc of the Khmer Communist Party.

Hou Youn, 47, is considered one of the leading party theoreticians. He likely will oversee the tracking down, arrests as VoYcution of "traitors" in the former pro-American regime — in short, he will direct the "bloodbath."

—HOU NIM: A 47-year-old doctor of law and political science, and the third "ghost," Hou Nim will be in charge of all propaganda, foreign and domestic, in his position as minister of information.

Since the outbreak of the Cambodian war, he has been in charge of military operations in the nation's northwest, near the Thai border. Hou Nim, like the other two "ghosts," is considered a pro-Peking Communist.

—IENG SARY: One of the least known of all the members of the new Cambodian hierarchy, Ieng Sary is believed to be a top leader.

The 45-year-old member of the Communist party of Cambodia has a title of only deputy minister. But he has served since 1971 as the chief courier between Cambodia and the leaders of North Vietnam and China. Sihanouk himself has served as Ieng Sary's interpreter.

—SIENG AN: The probable leader of any Hanoi-Peking split among Cambodian leaders, the GRUNK ambassador to North Vietnam is a former member of the Viet Minh. He is believed to be the main mover behind the infiltration of Hanoi-trained Cambodians to the insurgent armed forces.

Like most of the GRUNK leaders, he fell out with Sihanouk years ago. He was jailed by Sihanouk in 1960 for pro-Communist statements in his Phnom Penh newspaper and was released after Polish government intervention in the case.

—SALATH SAR: Believed to be the real military leader of the insurgents in combat, Salath Sar once was a tutor to Sihanouk's children.

He was trained by North Vietnamese following the end of the French Indochina war in 1954. His official title is army chief of staff but he also serves as secretary-general of the Khmer Communist party.

He is considered by most experts, along with Sieng An, to be pro-Hanoi.

Freeman Editorials

Local History

The early heritage of this nation is something that should be zealously preserved, especially in these times of national adversity and turmoil. The Kingston Bicentennial Commission, the Stockade Committee and Friends of Historic Kingston are doing exactly that with the ceremonies planned for this coming Sunday. The occasion is to mark the 198th anniversary of the adoption of New York State's first constitution. That date was April 20, 1777 and it happened right here in Kingston. Sunday's celebration will take place at 1:30 p.m. on the steps of the county courthouse on Wall Street, with various area notables on hand. We urge all area residents with a sense of history to make this event a must on their calendars.

GOP's Low Ebb

More bad news for the Republican party is found in the latest Gallup Poll on the question: "In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat, or independent?" The results freshly emphasize what has become increasingly evident over the past year—that the GOP is in deep trouble with the electorate and must make an all-out effort to attract support if it is to avoid a political debacle in 1976.

This is a matter of primary concern to the Republicans. It also is of concern, however, to all who believe that a viable two-party system furthers the best interests of the nation.

The outcome of the poll starkly delineates the extent, if not the precise nature, of the Republican party's problem. Only 22 percent of those queried consider themselves Republicans, as against 46 percent affiliated with the Democrats and 32 percent who say they are independents.

When one goes behind those figures, the picture is even more depressing for the GOP. Among voters between the ages of 18 and 29 only 15 percent opted for the Republican party. Moreover, young voters calling themselves independents lean toward the Democratic party five to one.

Republican leaders are naturally disheartened by this picture of the electorate, but they need not despair. They have a year and a half to build up party support before the national elections in November 1976. The message of the poll is that to do this they must take vigorous steps to persuade the voters that the GOP is responsive to the deeply felt concerns of the American people and qualified to deal effectively with those concerns.

Berry's World

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

Washington — There have been bitter recriminations in Saigon and Washington that the United States is to blame for South Vietnam's military setbacks. It sounds, indeed, as if the great debate is beginning over who "lost" Vietnam. At the Pentagon, a general complained to us that "we had the war won" until President Nixon started bringing home the American troops. Defense Secretary James Schlesinger suggested that South

"If we just had proof of that 'secret agreement' . . . do you suppose Richard has the tape?"

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Elysee Palace has passed the word that President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing may break French policy of the last decade by attending a NATO summit meeting late in May, a surprising message indicating European alarm at the suddenly fallen fortunes of the U.S.

No French president has ever attended a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) summit since the French pulled out of the alliance's military structure in 1966. The bare possibility that Giscard himself may indeed go to Brussels for the summit meeting that President Ford is now trying to put together was privately raised with the U.S. embassy in Paris.

If he does attend, it will signal no change in French policy toward NATO; nor will Giscard be a particularly eager participant. Rather, the decision to attend would display one thing: rising French concern, shared all over Western Europe, that the catastrophe of American policy in Southeast Asia coupled with Soviet Advances requires a solid show of Western unity.

There is also reaction in Moscow. So shattering and sudden is the U.S. debacle in Vietnam and Cambodia that policymakers here detect minute though significant policy changes inside the Kremlin to protect the U.S.-Soviet de-

Vietnam would be fighting better "if we had been less niggardly with our aid."

And South Vietnam's Ambassador Tran Kim Phuong went on U.S. television to proclaim that it is safer to be an ally of the Communists than of the Americans.

Before the rhetoric gets out of hand, let's examine the available facts. The latest estimates, compiled by the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department and the Pentagon, show that the United States spent 15 times more during the past nine years to support Saigon than the Soviet Union and Communist China spent to help Hanoi.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Saigon Received More Than Hanoi

In total military support alone, the United States outspent the Communists by 34 times.

But the most dramatic measure was in blood, not cash. Not a single Soviet or Chinese soldier, so far as we could learn, fought in the field for the North Vietnamese, but 56,226 Americans died and 153,654 Americans were wounded fighting for the South Vietnamese.

The statistics, compiled by the Indochina Resource Center, offer these additional comparisons:

—Since 1966, the Soviets and Chinese have shipped $5.3 billion in economic aid to Hanoi. This is slightly more than the $4.9 billion that the United States gave Saigon. But Communist military assistance to North Vietnam amounted to a paltry 43.95 billion compared to the staggering $135.4 billion worth of military support that the United States gave to South Vietnam.

—The grand totals, therefore, set Communist aid at $9.3 billion, and United States assistance at $140.3 billion. The U.S. figures, incidentally, are the most conservative estimates possible. President Ford himself has put United States aid to South Vietnam at $150 billion.

—Of all the foreign money pumped into both Vietnams in the past nine years, 93.8 percent came out of the pockets of the American taxpayers.

—Since the Paris Peace Accords were signed in January, 1973, the United States has spent $6.6 billion to keep the war going. Russia and China have contributed only $2.7 billion to the Communist side during the same period.

—Since 1945, the United States has donated $128.5 billion in outright gifts to 131 nations and territories. Of this total, a generous $22.5 billion, or 17.5 percent, went to South Vietnam. This was far more than any other single nation received.

In sum, the American people have supported South Vietnam far more generously than the Communists have supported North Vietnam.

Footnote: Although we have quoted the CIA estimates accurately, a CIA memo adds this caveat: Communist aid "is not equivalent to — and hence not comparable with — U.S. appropriations for military and economic aid to South Vietnam." One reason, said the CIA, was because its information "is very spotty."

Censored transcripts: In the expletives-deleting tradition of the former Nixon crowd, Mary Brooks, the queen bee of the U.S. Mint, has censored her testimony before the House Appropriations Committee.

"I wish you could do something about Civil Service," she snapped, "so we can get rid of the drones on our payroll. We are hamstrung. This government is awful."

Drawing on her background as an Idaho rancher, she bluntly told the congressmen that she "wouldn't put up with sheepherders" with what she has to accept from government workers.

Rep. Ed Patten, (D-N.J.), suggested that she "send them out to the ranch," presumably for some Western-style indoctrination.

Retorted Mrs. Brooks tartly: "I wish I had something like the salt mines in Poland or someplace like that."

But the erstwhile ranchwoman had second thoughts before the transcript went to the printers. She quietly deleted her salty language to give her remarks a more cautious, bureaucratic tone.

Gone from the censored version are the "drones" of the Mint. She is recorded only as making the innocuous statement: "I wish you could do something about Civil Service rules, so we can get rid of some of the ineffectives in government."

In the sanitized version, the government is no longer "awful," and she no longer wants to exile anyone to the Polish salt mines. She merely states rather tamely: "Civil Service rules do make it difficult at times."

Footnote: Mrs. Brooks acknowledged that the uncensored transcript quoted her correctly. "Those remarks were offhand and casual, and I didn't mean anything by it," she said. "Really, I didn't. I didn't have anyone in mind when I said it."

Inside Report

French Concern for the West

The first change: an order from the Kremlin to the Communist party of Portugal to "go slow" in seizing total power in Lisbon.

That directive was given to the second ranking Portuguese Communist party official on his recent visit to Moscow to discuss the rapid and astonishing success of the party in its grasp for control of the Western anchor of NATO.

U.S. officials desperately trying to grasp the full impact of the worst foreign policy defeat in this nation's history are sure of nothing at this early stage, but a consensus is beginning to develop along these lines:

The Kremlin was probably shocked as much as the Ford administration by the wholly unexpected withdrawal and subsequent collapse of the South Vietnamese army. With thousands of Americans still in Saigon and Phnom Penh as potential victims of Asian fury, Moscow is fearful that mass killings could arouse violent reactions in the U.S.—

"arouse the slumbering beast," in the words of one policymaker—and result in angry anti-Soviet sentiment. That could shatter detente, which the Kremlin definitely does not want to happen.

Having poured arms and munitions into Hanoi, the Soviet Union has forfeited control over the pace of events in Vietnam. But it is not without important political and financial resources to slow down the Communist takeover in Portugal.

There is, moreover, another explanation for a Soviet go-slow order to its confederates in Portugal. Moscow desperately wants an all-European summit meeting later this year that would formally recognize Soviet hegemony over its European empire. If Portugal slips inside the Communist orbit, the Kremlin can forget all about any such summit conference.

These first political developments from the debacle of Vietnam—a French concession to President Ford's call for a Western summit and Moscow's effort to restrain the Portuguese Communists—underscore a key phrase in Mr. Ford's distended speech to Congress.

"As long as I'm President," he said, "we will not permit detente to become a license to fish in troubled waters."

Those words reflect both the hard-line policy of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and the specific recommendation, made directly to the Oval Office on several occasions the past 10 days, of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. The warning, however, did not have to be made by the President for Soviet leaders to get the point.

Even in the Middle East, Moscow is playing a "cool and quiet" game, according to ne presidential adviser. The Soviets are working closely with radical Palestinians to avoid border attacks against Israel that might set off another Arab-Israeli war—and a super-power confrontation.

These covert Soviet moves point in only one direction: detente as a Soviet policy is serving Soviet interests far too well to risk anything approaching direct face-down with the U.S. President Ford's toughest job now is to find ways for the U.S. to escape further defeats within the same detente framework—a problem of statesmanship harder than any President has faced since World War II.

Three Men Who Met at the Gallows

Three men. One aspired to be a hero. One longed to be a playwright. The third knew that someday he would be an author. In early 1916, they were strangers. Within five years, two would watch one die without pity.

Carl Wanderer was a young Chicago butcher. At the age of 27, he had his own shop. It earned a profit. But Carl was unhappy. Customers poked him with jokes about his receding hair line and his German upbringing. Some said, "Hoch der Kaiser!", and laughed.

Carl laughed, too. He was afraid of a fist fight. When he read that Pancho Villa had come up from Mexico and raided an American town, Mr. Wanderer saw his great opportunity. He closed the butcher shop and enlisted to fight with General John J. Pershing.

On the other side of Chicago, young Charles MacArthur was a reporter on the Examiner. His fights were confined to the city editor. Charlie wanted more important assignments. To hell with the society teas. Someday, he said, he would write plays. His editor shrugged.

A few blocks away, Ben Hecht held down a typewriter at the Daily News. He longed to write fat books of deep humanities.

Three strangers. Wanderer realized his ambition. He fought Villa's irregulars up and down the Rio Grande. He sat a cavalry horse and was decorated for bravery under fire. Carl was a hero.

When he returned to Chicago, the United States proclaimed war on Imperial Germany. The son of Germans enlisted again. By the time he reached France, Carl was a second lieutenant in the cavalry. The timid butcher braved German machine gun fire and had horses shot from under him.

Wanderer returned to Chicago laden with decorations. The butcher shop was dull work, but no one made fun of his lack of hair or his German ancestry. He showed his medals and his black .45 automatic.

His mother suggested that, at age 32, he should be married. In the manner of a soldier obeying a field order, he scouted among women and found Ruth Johnson, a young brunette. Carl married her with the same detached manner he used in cutting sides of beef.

They lived with her parents. Hecht was covering criminal court, trying to think of a book to write. MacArthur, who had served with the field artillery, was writing a thing called "The Cannoneers Have Hairy Ears."

January, 1921, was cold in Chicago. Icy wind from Lake Michigan swirled drifting snow into ice cream cones and plastered tall buildings with a poor coat of white paint. Ruth said she was pregnant. Carl nodded absentmindedly. "Yes," he said. "One must expect..."

In June, Mrs. Wanderer was big and awkward. The dutiful husband took her to a movie on June 21st. As always, he stuck his .45 automatic inside his belt. Without it he might forget he was a hero. At 10:30, they entered the dark vestibule of their apartment house. A man's voice said, "Don't turn on the light." The voice uttered bad words. In the darkness, a gun flashed like summer lightning.

Carl was a hero. He pulled his gun. There were 14 explosions and the music of shattering glass. By the time the light was turned on, Carl Wanderer was screaming, shaking a dead man dressed as a beggar. Ruth Wanderer died mumbling, "My baby...my baby..."

Carl Wanderer made page one as a hero once more. A tragic one. On the Daily News, Hecht kept looking at a photo of two .45 automatics. One was found on the bum. The other belonged to Carl. Hecht wondered what was wrong with the picture.

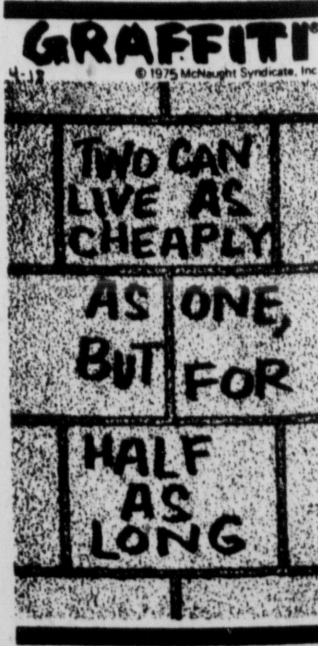

MacArthur was impressed by the same photo. He phoned the Colt Arms Company and identified the stranger's gun as having been sold to a telephone mechanic in Chicago. Charlie paid him a visit. "Oh," he said, "that gun. I sold it years ago to a postman named Fred Wanderer." Charlie tracked Wanderer's cousin. The man seemed ill. "I loaned that to Carl the day of the shooting," he said.

Ben Hecht visited the grieving hero. They chatted. Later the reporter used the bathroom. He found a lacy robe. In one pocket were women's stockings, face rouge and lipstick. In the other were a packet of love letters. He jammed them in his jacket.

The rival reporters arrived at police headquarters at the same time. Charlie told the story of the gun. Ben showed the makeup and the letters. The hero was arrested. He was indignant.

Hecht said, "Carl, your boyfriend will be here in a few minutes," Carl shrieked, "No! No!" he confessed. He had been a homosexual all the way and hated women. He had hired a bum from the Loop for $20 to hide in the hallway and fake a holdup.

The hero killed his wife and the only witness. Hecht, MacArthur and Carl met at the gallows. As the rope went around his neck, the hero burst into tears and sang, "Dear Old Pal..."

Fred M. Rogers, the Mister Rogers of Channel 13, educational network, who once told a Harvard University audience that children are "tired of being enrolled, assigned, programmed, graded and molded from without."

Linda Philbrick, consultant to children's program Mister Rogers' Neighborhood, which can be viewed locally at 9 a.m., Channel 13, traced a child's learning experiences from early infancy to pre-school age at a special YWCA sponsored parents' forum held Tuesday night (April 15) in Kingston.

YWCA Forum on TV and Youth

By Dorothy A. Narel

Television, often referred to as a "vast wasteland" is still under attack. Educators are deeply concerned about the "boob tube's" successful diminishing of children's learning abilities and the mesmerizing of tomorrow's young adults by a "passive, visual teacher."

The topic of television was discussed at great length by LINDA PHILBRICK of Poughkeepsie, consultant to a children's program MISTER ROGERS' NEIGHBORHOOD which can be viewed on the educational network, Channel 13.

Speaking before a group of parents of pre-school children at the Young Women's Christian Association, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, Tuesday, April 15, Mrs. Philbrick is the first of a series of speakers scheduled by the YW's Play School Group and Connie Weiss, executive director. The programs are specifically geared to meet the needs of many groups with particular emphasis upon proper preparation and development of children's learning and motor abilities.

Mrs. Philbrick, who has her MS in Child Development from the University of Pittsburgh, feels television is in a critical phase. If television is going to play a positive role in developing a child's learning abilities, the speaker said that programming must be of a nature to meet the child's needs.

The mother of two children, ages four and seven, said a heavy early diet of TV violence, or even "innocuous programs planned solely as a vehicle for selling products without any reference to, or understanding of, the children's developmental needs," will NOT meet the difficult task.

In this area, the still popular TV program, SESAME STREET, was criticized on several scores both by the guest speaker and several parents. Mrs. Philbrick was critical of the Sesame format which, while attempting to teach numbers and letters, makes use of "biting animals and snakes." She emphasized it tends to "confuse" the child in the areas of realism and fantasy.

In exploring the topic, the guest speaker said children are easily "hooked" by television because they relate to its passive type of entertainment much the same way they were fed and held during infancy. She compared it with the visual image of the mother and child noting that television later becomes the substitute for mother's "visual image."

"Children often watch television in much the same manner they watched their mothers during feeding," she said. "They often curl up in very relaxed physical positions and stare at the TV with the same intent visual fixation that the infant studied the mother's face," the consultant pointed out.

There is such a tremendous shifting in the types of shows scheduled during a day that it is easy for a child to become confused, Mrs. Philbrick stated. "Children can be partially tuned out to learning because of it. It's like having so much garbage thrown at you that they (the children) get a mindful of undigested, unsorted things," the speaker stressed.

Both the speaker and parents agreed that family values vs. cultural values of television programs must be determined. Mrs. Philbrick went on to state she felt one and a half hours (no more than two) of television per day was sufficient for the pre-school child.

She also asked: "How often have you heard a mother say a particular nursery school was good because her child was taught the alphabet?" The consultant took exception to this kind of thinking by emphasizing that learning the alphabet at such an early age was NOT important and that time spent on it was actually robbing the child of time that should be spent developing creativity, motor skills and visual perception.

'Fantasy 'n Fashion' Set for Expo

Many innovations and special features are being planned by Fashiontime Models for their fashion show, "Fantasy 'n Fashion," which will be presented during the upcoming Lions Exposition and Home Show. The Expo runs from April 29 through May 3, with the fashion show scheduled to take place Thursday, May 1, at 8:15 p.m.

According to the coordinators of Fashiontime Models, partners Bonnie Perlmutter and Maxine Goodheim, the fashion show will be open to the public, with no admission charge to Expo visitors.

"We're really excited about the show," said Ms. Goodheim. "We hope to transcend the usual 'fashion show' concept and introduce some unusual and creative ideas, with a few surprises. And, of course, some of the newest, most exciting fashions for men, women and children, with the accent on summer."

Among the many Fashiontime models who will be on-stage, are Marilyn Scott of Woodstock, internationally known cover girl, who has appeared in such magazines as Vogue, Harpers and Good Housekeeping; and Kay Gilligan, a former professional model, and a favorite at many local fashion shows. Fashiontime models represent modeling talent ranging from those with high-fashion professional experience to children and newcomers to the field.

"While many of our fashions will appeal to teens and juniors," said Ms. Perlmutter, "there will be high interest for every age group and figure type, with swimwear and wedding apparel also featured."

Local area stores exhibiting fashions in the May 1 fashion show are: Britts, Ladybug Fashions; Fashion Gallery; Prom 'n Wedding; Nugents; Hibernation; The Buttonhole (Saugerties); Crane's Men's Shop; Fashionably Yours and Stretch 'n Sew.

Ms. Perlmutter, who resides in West Hurley, has an extensive background in the promotion and entertainment field, having served as coordinator and organizer for entertainment events and fashion shows for patients and staff of Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, New York City, working in hospital administration. She also gained experience in the entertainment field as a frequent visitor to Brown's Hotel in Loch Sheldrake, which is owned by her uncle, Charles Brown.

Ms. Goodheim, a native of Rochester, is a former featured vocalist with the Vaughan Monroe Orchestra, under the professional name of Maxine Lee, and has appeared in a variety of musical presentations in the Poconos, Adirondacks and Catskill Mountain areas. A model herself, Ms. Goodheim was a staff member of the Barbizon School of Modeling in Rochester, with extensive modeling experience at Sibley's and McCurdy's Department Stores. She appeared recently as a model during the series of fashion shows held at the Cattleman Restaurant.

Fashiontime Models for Lions Expo

Among the Fashiontime models who will appear at the May 1 fashion show conducted during the Lions Club Exposition and Home Show include Barbara Wise (L), Kerhonsen; Linda Vendemark, Woodstock and Melody Fisher of Stone Ridge. Also adding her young charms is Laurie Hicinbotham of New Paltz.

Maennerchor Spring Concert

Kingston Maennerchor and Damenchor, Inc., of 37 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston, will hold its 107th Spring Concert Saturday, May 3 at 7:45 p.m. at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School auditorium, Merilina Avenue. Immediately following the concert, a dance will take place at Governor Clinton Hotel where music will be provided by The Craftsmen.

Otto H. Scherrieble, president, and Julius Hochmuth, musical director, along with the music committee, have arranged a fine musical program of continental flavor, accompanied by an orchestra consisting entirely of members of Kingston Maennerchor and Damenchor and the Germania Singing Society of Poughkeepsie.

Several songs will be sung a cappella. For the finale, Mr. Hochmuth has arranged a potpourri of 20 popular German songs entitled "Vom Rhein zur Donau." This medley of songs will be sung by the Maennerchor and Damenchor in conjunction with the Germania Singing Society.

Co-chairmen of the event are Frederick Schreiner and Heinz Vogt. Tickets are available from members as well as at the door.

Sen. James Buckley To Speak May 9

Sen. James L. Buckley will be the main speaker for the annual dinner meeting of the Dutchess County Federation of Republican Women on May 9 at the Camelot Inn, South Road, Poughkeepsie.

A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Announcement of the dinner plans was made known by Mrs. Richard Yeager, Federation president.

Scheib-Levine Marriage

MRS. MARK NEIL LEVINE

gown of imported satin-faced organza fashioned with a modified Empire bodice, long Renaissance sleeves, and a draped, back-pleated A-line skirt. The gown was accented with peau d'ange lace and seed pearls. A Camelot-styled headpiece of lace and pearl appliques held her triple-tiered chapel-length, silk illusion veil. She carried a Bible covered with an orchid.

Wendy Levine of Tillson and Roberta Fingerman of High Falls, sister of the bride, served as maid and matron of honor, respectively. They wore maracaine jersey gowns, in pink and blue, styled with Empire waistlines and V-necklines. Both attendants carried bouquets of pink roses, baby's breath and blue spider chrysanthemums.

Barry Levine of Tillson was best man for his brother. Ushers were Jeffrey Fingerman of High Falls, Andy Sohor of Brooklyn and Paul Levin of St. Louis, Mo.

A reception was given at The Hedges in West Park.

The bride received her BS degree from Brockport State University and her masters degree from Bowling Green University. She is employed as a teacher at New Paltz Middle School.

Her husband earned his BS degree from American Northwestern University, Illinois. He is employed by Mid-Hudson Leisure magazine.

The couple will reside at Toc Drive in Highland.

MRS. THOMAS MICHAEL KRAMER
(Nancy Ann Tresaloni)
(Lakeside Studio)

Tresaloni-Kramer Wedding

Nancy Ann Tresaloni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas J. Tresaloni of 385 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with Thomas Michael Kramer of Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kramer of Saugerties.

The Rev. Joseph Kozlowski officiated at the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass April 5 at Immaculate Conception Church, Kingston. Traditional wedding selections were provided by Joseph Eigo at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a white gown of maricane jersey in the Empire A-line styling. Venice lace accented the ring neckline and a wateau chapel train fell from the shoulders. A bordered lace hooded cap was worn as her headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with lavender baby's breath.

Patricia Welch of New York City was maid of honor in a gown of lilac-myesta knit designed in the hatler style, featuring a monk cape. She carried a bouquet of purple carnations, yellow roses and white baby's breath.

Attendants were Mrs. Judy Sottile, Kingston; Mary Ellen Kramer, sister of the bridegroom, Saugerties; Jeri Iommi, Staten Island; Mrs. Jill Lewis, Hyde Park. Annmarie Kramer, sister of the bridegroom, Saugerties, served as flower girl.

Attendants' orchid bouquets were identical in styling to maid of honor's. They carried bouquets of purple carnations and yellow baby's breath. The flower girl was attired identically to the honor attendant, and carried a basket of purple carnations, yellow roses and white baby's breath.

Joseph Kramer, brother of the bridegroom, Saugerties was best man. Ushers were Alfred Kramer, brother of the bridegroom, Saugerties; Mark McCheyne, Rochester; Gary Anderson, Mt. Marion; Paul Tresaloni, brother of the bride, Kingston.

A reception was given at Holiday Inn.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of John A. Coleman High School and a 1974 graduate of Hudson River State Hospital School of Nursing in Poughkeepsie, will be employed by Highland Hospital in Rochester.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of Mount Assumption Institute, Plattsburgh, attended Rochester Institute of Technology and is employed by Rochester Stationery Supply, Inc.

The couple will reside at 64-G Clintwood Court, Rochester, after a wedding trip to Florida and Nassau.

Konopka-Braden Nuptial Vows Exchanged Recently

Patricia Ann Konopka of Saugerties and William Patrick Braden Jr. of Palenville were married April 5 at Sacred Heart Church in Palenville.

The Rev. Ignatius E. Rossi officiated at the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Organist Mrs. Fanny Roberts accompanied Mrs. Dolores Weiss who sang wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Konopka of Old Kings Highway in Saugerties. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Braden Sr. of Palenville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a satin gown with floral appliques, an Empire waistline, and a long train. She wore a matching veil and carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with a white orchid, and accented with baby's breath.

Mrs. Cindy MacDowelle and Miss Debra Curry, both of Saugerties, served as matron and maid of honor, respectively. Attendants were Miss Dawn Kalisak of Long Island, Miss Anna Merced of Bronx; Miss Mary Braden, Palenville, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Patti Konopka, Saugerties, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Kate Konopka, niece of the bride, Saugerties, and Miss Michelle MacDowelle, Saugerties, served as flower girls.

The honor attendants and flower girls wore Nile green gowns. Attendants wore peach gowns of Georgette and taffeta. They wore scalloped hats to match. Mrs. Drew Marsh of Palenville made the attendants' gowns. Flower girls carried tiny baskets of rose petals, with green and peach floral wreaths. Attendants carried arrangements of carnations.

Richard Braden of Palenville was best man for his brother. Ushering were John MacDowelle, brother-in-law of the bride; Anthony Konopka, brother of the bride, both of Saugerties; Steven Braden, brother of the bridegroom; Christopher Marsh, both of Palenville; Owen Marsh, Beacon; Robert Braden and Daniel Braden, both of Palenville, brothers of the bridegroom, served as ringbearers.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove, Kingston.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School. Her husband, an alumnus of Catskill High School, class of 1972, is a U.S. Naval veteran. He plans to attend Albany Academy to be a correctional officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Braden Jr. will reside in Tannersville.

Should Newlyweds Bill "No-Show" Guests?

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle an argument. Rob and I had a large church wedding for which we sent out formal invitations six weeks prior to the wedding.

The r.s.v.p.'s were addressed to my parents and stamped, so all the people had to do was sign their name and drop it in the mailbox.

Out of 175 invited guests, we heard from only 150.

We also had a formal reception, and of those who accepted, 15 couples didn't show up. My parents had to pay for 30 dinners that were not touched. (We never received a note or even a phone call from the no-shows.)

I am all for sending each of these "no-show" couples a bill for their dinners. Rob says to drop it and forget the whole thing. What is your opinion?

BURNED IN METHUEN
DEAR BURNED: I'm with

Rob.
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I see eye to eye on almost everything, but we have one major difference of opinion. I can't stand people who use dirty four-letter words, and my husband says that that's the way some people talk, and that I should accept them for what they are and try to get over my hang-up.

Sorry, but I can't. I wasn't brought up that way. It's not that I'm a prude, Abby. I've heard all the words and I know what they mean, but I don't see why people who talk dirty can't go out of their way to avoid offending those of us who have this so-called "hang-up" about four-letter words.

What is your feeling about this?

HUNG-UP
DEAR HUNG-UP: I'm hung up, too, because I wasn't brought up that way, either. But some of the most humane, constructive and interesting people I know occasionally resort to four-letter words. And some of the most intolerant, hypocritical, narrow-minded bigots wouldn't think of using such language.

The sensitive, considerate person who normally uses four-letter words will watch his language out of respect for those in his company whom he knows are offended by it. But one can't always judge a person's worth and character by his language any more than one can judge a book by its cover.

DEAR ABBY: Everywhere I go, I see more and more "how to" books!

The latest is on how to make love. I have nothing against that. I'm sure a lot of people need help in that area, but I would like to make one comment.

We read so much about the importance of "foreplay." (Most men are in too big a hurry to get right down to the sex act, not realizing it takes a woman longer to get warmed up.) Very little, however, is said about "afterplay" — which, I think, is equally important.

If a man would just take his lady love in his arms and hold her, and maybe give her a little kiss on the nose afterwards, it would mean so much.

So many men just roll over and give the little lady their backs for the rest of the night. Abby, will you please pass this along to your male readers, if you think it has merit? Thanks.

LOVES TO BE LOVED

DEAR LOVES: Consider it passed. I wonder how many women have suffered in silence from such a seemingly minor oversight?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Make-up Magic

In applying make-up the first thing you should learn is how color can help you. Dark make-up colors will minimize a poor feature and make it less noticeable and light make-up will draw attention to your good features and play them up.

Everyone from baby to grandma can have their ears pierced the fast-safe-easy way by a registered nurse. Safe, aseptic (germ free) and painless. If you are under 18 parents permission required. A signed release is required.

Ulster Youth Theater to Show 'Alice'

"Alice in Wonderland," the children's classic, written by Lewis Carroll, will be presented by the Ulster Youth Theater, April 25 and 26 at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School. Two performances will be given each day at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The play, adapted by Madge Miller, is based on the most famous book in children's literature, "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland." The story tells of the fantastic adventures of a little girl after following a rabbit down a rabbit hole. The incidents which follow in which Alice meets such characters as White Rabbit, Cheshire Cat, Duchess, the Knave and King of Hearts, the Mad Hatter, March Hare, Dormouse and Mock Turtle made Carroll famous throughout the world, and is one of the most widely quoted works in English literature.

For weeks Artistic Directors Elizabeth Askue and Bill Skilling have been working students which includes all young people enrolled at the Youth Theater. Two complete casts have been selected and have been in rehearsal to bring this production to life.

The theater, located at 296 Fair Street in Kingston, has literally been a beehive of activity for students, staff and parents. Set design, costume, and music for the major production of the year has been coordinated by Mrs. Robert B. Hutton.

A Friendly Moment

Jeanne Donnemberg (L) as Cecily and Jean Vaivoda as Gwendolyn share a friendly moment in the "Importance of Being Earnest."

Oscar Wilde's Comedy 'Earnest' At SU Paltz

"The Importance of Being Earnest," Oscar Wilde's classic British drawing-room comedy, will open on April 30 at the State University College at New Paltz. Without a doubt one of the most lavish and ambitious projects ever undertaken by the New Paltz theatre department, the play will run through May 2 at the McKenna Theatre on the New Paltz campus.

The plot of "Earnest" revolves around the efforts of two young men about town, Algernon Moncrieff and Jack Worthing, to win the hands of their loves, Gwendolyn Fairfax and Cecily Cardew. Matters are complicated by several obstacles: for one Gwendolyn's mother, the obstinate Lady Bracknell, will not allow her daughter to marry beneath her station, for another, both young ladies will only marry a man whose first name is Ernest. Several hilarious misunderstandings and plot complications ensue, as the play draws to a satisfactory, if frenetic, conclusion.

Director John Morrow has assembled a fine cast to perform this classic comedy of language. Ken Myles and Rob Ingraham portray Algernon and Jack, the two young English gentlemen. Myles has previously appeared at New Paltz in productions of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," "What the Butler Saw," "Awake and Sing," "The Birthday Party," and "Marat/Sade." Ingraham was seen in January as McCann in "The Birthday Party."

The stuffy Lady Bracknell is played with elegance by Sally Minic, who most recently asayed the role of Charlotte Corday in "Marat/Sade," after appearing last year in "The Lower Depths" and "St. Joan of the Stockyards." Gwendolyn and Cecily are played by Jean Vaivoda and Jeanne Donnemberg, both of whom have a background in light comedy: Miss Vaivoda in the musical "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and Miss Donnemberg in "The Fantasticks."

The supporting cast displays remarkable background and versatility. Byll Peoples, who last appeared as the Marquis De Sade in "Marat/Sade," portrays the eccentric minister, Dr. Chasuble. Jennifer Vincent-Barwood of the "Marat" company appears as the literary but absent-minded governess, Miss Prism. The butlers, Lane and Merriman, are played by Kenn Cranna and Perry Werbel. Cranna was part of the "Marat" ensemble, while Werbel most recently completed an actor's tour de force — playing six different roles in Michael Weller's "Tiresias." Tells Everything There is to Know About Herself."

Spring is floaty, fluttery, a fashion land of softness and light; things like ruffles, lace, subtle see-throughs feminine, pleasing and pretty to the eye. Spring calls for a comfortable but controlled silhouette that's wearable, layers that diversify, distinctive looks that are sensible, not just showpieces looking for the limelight. Classic quality is important as well as design.

San Francisco's Chinatown (foreground) lies in ruins following the great earthquake and fire of April 18, 1906. Fires started by wood stoves that toppled, eventually devoured 28,000 buildings. In background is Nob Hill and the Fairmont Hotel (R). Today marks the 69th anniversary of the quake. (UPI)

Practical Patchwork! Sunday, April 20th

This Sunday, you are invited to a display and demonstration of practical patchwork crafts by Jaki Amen, patchworker extraordinaire. Come enjoy a creative display of yesterday and today and learn how easily you can adapt this personal touch to your home decor. Ms. Amen will be in our Ethan Allen Home Fashion Center this Sunday, from 1 to 5 pm.

An Anniversary Better Forgotten

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gladys Todd, 84, remembers the morning April 18, 1906, when America's worst earthquake swayed her three-story frame house like a strong wind.

"I'd never seen an earthquake before. I thought it was the wind coming through the Golden Gate," she said.

Aftershocks jolted her off the bed as she tried to pull on her stockings.

Brick buildings down the street crumbled. Fires started by broken electrical and gas connections ravaged the city for days.

The San Francisco quake and resulting fire left 250,000 persons homeless — more than half the population. An estimated 452 died.

"We had a roomer who slept through the whole thing. Men can sleep through anything," Mrs. Todd said during an annual reunion of earthquake survivors.

Thirty oldsters living in the Victorian Hotel Wednesday commemorated the anniversary of the worst earthquake in the history of the United States. At least 20 of them lived in San Francisco during the earthquake 69 years ago.

The quake registered 8.3 on the Richter Scale and was the most destructive in the recorded history of North America.

"I was 15. I said to mother, 'The wind must be shaking the house,'" Mrs. Todd said. "My mother said, 'Wind nothing! It's an earthquake! Hurry up and get dressed!'"

George Fagan, 82, was in St. Vincent's Orphanage, 15 miles across San Francisco Bay in San Rafael, not far from the jagged San Andreas fault line which slipped along a 270-mile course, offsetting roads, fences, buildings, water and gas pipes by as much as 21 feet.

"All the candles in the chapel fell over. After the fire (in San Francisco) we couldn't see the sun for two weeks. Ashes fell in our courtyard."

Two months later Fagan was taken to the train station in San Francisco.

"All of Market Street was black in ashes — and soldiers everywhere. There was nothing left."

In the days of chaos which followed the first great shock at 5:13 a.m., an area of more than 2,593 acres was burned, destroying 490 city blocks.

Nearby at San Jose, an insane asylum collapsed, killing 117 patients and attendants. Fifty persons lost their lives at Santa Rosa.

YMCA Campaign Seeks $2 Million

KINGSTON — Members of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County are out looking to the public for $2 million to finance additional construction for the private organization.

The campaign kickoff dinner Wednesday night brought out 450 members, who were charged with the fund raising task from a list of some 8,000 "prospects."

The monies raised will be used to construct a new gymnasium complex for members, handball/squash courts, a running track, and related facilities.

The new building will be connected to the present swimming pool complex at 507 Broadway.

A final report on the fund drive is expected May 8, just 22 days hence.

Several youths participated in the dinner program, including Daun Williams, a member of the Y swimming team; and YMCA youth speakers Linda Gallo and Kevin Belcastro.

Charter Session: Government Works

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON
Kingston's Charter Revision Commission held its first "public meeting" Thursday night and came away with at least the following observations:

- Kingston's basic form of government (its charter) despite literally scores of changes since its inception in 1896, seems to work;

- The people in government like the way it is now;

- And, "the public," at least judging from Thursday night's zero attendance, isn't all that concerned about charter revision.

If the rows of empty chairs bothered members of the Charter Revision Commission and its staff, it didn't show, as they went from a presentation by staff attorney, Andrew Gilday to a series of committee reports on various city boards and departments in a two and a half hour work session.

Gilday offered comparisons of the charter as adopted in 1896 and the government as it operates today. Gilday came away somewhat impressed by the old document which he said was broad enough so that various things that have happened are covered by it.

William Dederick, secretary on the commission, and a self-avowed, "devil's advocate" was a good deal less impressed with the charter and the commission's purpose for attempting to revise it. Dederick's point was that the charter had been revised so many times over the years that no one really knew what was in it. He predicted that basically the same thing would happen with any new charter proposed by the commission.

No one argued with Dederick but the idea that revision of the charter should be more strictly controlled arose from the points he made.

The Commission offered an objective view of the charter—the government seems to have grown with the times—except in the area of the Housing Code Commission.

Dederick, for one, and there was general accord, strongly objected to inspections of private homes by government officials. It was explained by Ella Clausi, who recorded the minutes of the commission and who is also secretary to the Housing Code Commission, that regular inspections of residences was required by the federal government and that the inspections of residences was required by the federal government and that the inspections are primarily in the area of safety.

Gilday allowed that there might be a constitutional question but that it had never been tested in Kingston.

Reports from various committees covered the Planning Board, (Dederick) the Police Department, (Mrs. Alexander Yosman) Examining Board of Plumbers, (John Shultis) the city laboratory, (Shultis) the recreation commission (Mrs. Ralph Smith).

In no case, were any of the boards or commissions in favor of any major changes. The police department, reported Mrs. Yosman "feels no change in charter is needed at this time."

The recreation department would like its commissions reduced to five (as opposed to seven) and their terms of office reduced to five years.

RR Crossing Work To Begin in May

KINGSTON

The Penn Central Railroad, with the aid of federal funding and the assistance of city crews, will undertake major repair and reconstruction of its tracks in the City of Kingston, beginning next month. Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today. Koenig said Penn Central and the city would begin work on the "Albany Avenue overpass" on May 1 aimed at reducing the crown in the road where it crosses the Penn Central tracks near East St. James Street.

Plans call for the removal of the decking and an inspection of the sub-decking. Koenig said Penn Central would make any emergency repairs that may be required once the sub-decking is exposed. Oneway traffic will be in effect during the repair period. The state plans to repave Albany Avenue during the summer.

Also on tap is repair work at the Penn Central crossing at Smith Avenue where the railroad will remove one of five tracks while effecting major repairs on the other four. Koenig indicated that street might be shut down during construction.

Repairs are also planned on trackage at Ten Broeck Avenue and Foxhall Avenue by Penn Central.

The state plans repairs on tracks on Flatbush Avenue. All work is set for next summer.

Koenig said he didn't expect there would be any extra city funding involved—"It's a cooperative program," he said. "We're assisting with manpower."

State-Operated Campsites Slated to Open, but...

By Carl Graham

ALBANY
Rumors circulating in the Kingston area that state-operated campsites would not open this year are unfounded, according to a Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) official.

Jerome W. Jensen, DEC's Forests and Parks general manager, said, "We're not in any doubt that there will be a camping season."

DEC has been allocated operating funds for the current fiscal year but the breakdown of those funds for recreational purposes has not yet been made, he explained.

"There are funds allocated now to enable us to operate the campsites, but we do not have enough to handle the whole system," he said.

Asked if this meant that all sites would be opened but with limited services or if certain sites would be closed due to lack of funds, Jensen said that decision that could not be made until after the exact allocation for recreation is known.

"There is still a potential for additional funds," he said. "We're hoping that something may occur so we can operate for a full year."

The seven-county Region 3 DEC office in New Paltz operates three campsites in the Catskill Forest Preserve, at Beaverkill and Mongaup Pond in Sullivan County and at Woodland Valley near Phoenicia in Ulster County. A spokesman in the New Paltz office said that the principal expense involved in their operation is personnel, with the two Sullivan County sites employing eight persons each and Woodland Valley another five. The other major expense item is supplies and materials, he noted.

All three sites have overnight camping and day picnic facilities and there are hiking trails near the Mongaup Pond and Woodland Valley sites. Beaverkill and Mongaup Pond have provisions for swimming and Mongaup Pond also permits (non-powered) boating.

The Beaverkill site suffered extensive flood damage during the winter and its opening might be delayed until it can be repaired, the spokesman said, noting that once again the work schedule is dependent on recreation fund allocations.

Nash Castro, general manager of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission (PIPC) in Bear Mountain, also said his plans were dependent of fund allocations from Albany, but that parks definitely would be open this summer. The only question is the exact opening dates, Castro said, adding that this information should be available in about a week.

PIPC operates mostly high-density day facilities but also maintains two campsites in Harriman State Park. Lake Welch Trailer and Tent Camp has 220 sites and the Sebago Family Camp another 43. In addition, there are several cabin camps available for use by non-profit organizations on a reservation basis.

A spokesman for the Taconic State Park and Recreation Commission, likewise, said that the rumors are untrue.

"We will be open this year," he commented, "there may be some adjustments in the seasons, but our campsites will be open to serve the needs of the public."

Naturalization Proceedings: 45 Take Oath

KINGSTON

"This country never was an aggressor in any war; we never fought to gain a single inch of another nation's ground. Each time we fought, it was in response to a cry for help." Supreme Court Justice Robert C. Williams told the 45 men, women and children who became new U.S. citizens in Ulster County Court Thursday.

"After every war we fought in we helped raise up our enemy. No nation in the history of mankind ever willingly gave so much for others and asked nothing in return," Justice Williams said. "Ours is a peaceful nation and we want only peace for others. We have fought and will fight again, if necessary, for freedom."

"Each individual citizen, including each of you," he told the new citizens, "is as important as the nation itself."

"We would fight to protect any of you."

"Realize that and join today with your fellow Americans in the defense of liberty, freedom and justice for all our citizens," he implored.

The oath of allegiance was administered by Clerk of the Court Robert Jordan and the presentation of the colors was made and the pledge of allegiance given by Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Joyce Shirick Post 1836.

Members of the Kingston High School Double Quartet sang the 'National Anthem' and 'America the Beautiful'; West Hurley Girl Scout Troop 79 served as ushers and flags were presented to the new citizens by Daughters of the American Revolution, Wiltwyck, Saugerties and Onti-ora chapters.

Corsages and boutonnieres were donated by Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone and Kingston Kiwanis Club was host to the new citizens at a luncheon at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. New citizens include:

Sandra Palmer Was Prepared

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Little Sandra Palmer came prepared.

The pretty lady from Texas showed up here three weeks ago to get ready for the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle championship golf tournament.

It paid off Thursday.

"In the past, I've been disappointed in the way I've played in this tournament," the 5-foot-1½, 117-pound Miss Palmer said following her first-round 70, a two-under-par score that put her one shot in front of four other women pros. "I've never spent much time preparing, though. Regardless of what happens this year, I'm really prepared. This is my third week in Palm Springs, and I've played at least nine holes everyday.

nie, last year's U.S. Women's Open and LPGA champion, vivacious French-Canadian Miss Palmer's best finish in the Dinah Shore was a tie for ninth in the first event in 1972. She was 12th in 1973 and 15th last year.

She admitted the top prize of $32,000 in the richest event in women's golf history put extra pressure on her. But she said she wasn't alone with that feeling.

"It's a lot of money," the former North Texas State homecoming queen smiled. "I'll bet there aren't many players who don't think about it coming in."

Joanne Carner, last year's LPGA Player of the Year, finished the first round three shots behind the leader while defending champion Jo Ann Prentice had a 78 and 19-year-old Laura Baugh, the glamour girl of the tour, shot a 75. A year ago, Miss Prentice beat Misses Haynie and Blalock in a sudden-death playoff.

"I'll take it (her 71)," she said. "This was one of those days I struggled from start to finish and never made solid contact. The wind really whipped up too. We've got a lot of holes to go yet."

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast only light winds today with temperatures in the 80s.

SPORTS / TODAY

"I feel I know this course if not better, at least as well as anyone else."

Miss Palmer, 34, carded 34-36 over the par 72, 6,347-yard Mission Hills Country Club layout on a day when winds gusted as high as 30 miles-an-hour.

Tied at 72 were Sandra Hay-

Jocelyn Bourassa, Betty Burfeindt and Kathy McMullen.

Another shot back were five more ladies, including Jane Blalock, who came here off back-to-back victories in Phoenix and Tokyo. The others were Susie McAllister, Debbie Austin, Mary Lou Crocker and Jan Ferraris.

Steve Garvey Proving The Fans Were Right

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

A brief note to all those fans who voted Steve Garvey a write-in All Star last year and to all those writers who later elected him the National League's Most Valuable Player:

Relax. Your candidate is proving he's no one-year wonder.

Garvey, who rose from the depths of baseball obscurity last season to become an All-Star hero and a .312-hitting MVP with 21 homers and 111 runs batted in, boosted his 1975 average to .400 Thursday by banging out five hits in helping the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 11 inning, 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"I've never had this good a start before," said Garvey, who was most instrumental in the Dodgers' four-game sweep of the Reds, their foremost rival in the National League West race. Wednesday, you may recall, it was Garvey who broke up a 6-6 tie in the ninth inning with a game-winning bases-loaded single.

"I had five hits in one game last season," Garvey recalled, "but not this early in the season. I always had good luck against Clay Carroll."

It was Carroll who fell victim to the final two Los Angeles runs that proved decisive in pushing the Dodgers into a first place tie with Atlanta in the NL West (both are 6-4). The Reds, meanwhile, slumped to 4-6 after sweeping the Dodgers with three one-run victories in Cincinnati at the opening of the season.

Trailing 4-3 going into the ninth, the Dodgers tied the score off Carroll on singles by Dave Lopes, pinch-hitter Manny Mota and Garvey. Then in the bottom of the 11th, Jimmy Wynn raced home with the winning run from second base when Willie Crawford's grounder went through the legs of first baseman Dan Driessen. Wynn had singled with two out and moved up on a single by Garvey—naturally.

"It's a shame these two teams are in the same division," said Garvey. "These four wins showed we could rebound from those losses in Cincinnati."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs out-slugged Philadelphia 10-9. Atlanta kept pace with the Dodgers by shading Houston 2-1, the New York Mets routed St. Louis 14-7 and Montreal upended Pittsburgh 7-4. In the only American League game after a rainout between Minnesota and California, Texas battered the Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Braves 2, Astros 1
Atlanta's Carl Morton posted his third victory, scoring the winning run himself in the 10th inning on Mike Lum's single. Morton, who allowed nine hits, led off the 10th with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice. After Darrell Evans was intentionally walked, Lum's single scored Morton. Dave Roberts, 1-1, went the distance for Houston and took the loss.

Cubs 10, Phillies 9
Rick Monday drove in five runs—three on a tie-breaking home run in the fifth inning—and Chicago held on to survive five late Philadelphia runs in the seventh and eighth innings. Monday's homer in the fifth, his first of the season, came after singles by Don Kessinger and Bill Madlock. Mike Schmidt hit a solo homer for the Phils while Dave Cash, Larry Bowa and Willie Montanez had two RBIs apiece for Philadelphia.

Expos 7, Pirates 4

Mike Jorgensen's two-run double capped Montreal's five-run ninth inning uprising that handed Pittsburgh its third straight defeat and Dave McNally his second victory as a National Leaguer. The Pirates' Willie Stargell had four hits in five at-bats and three RBIs, including a two-run homer in the ninth.

Rangers 7, White Sox 3

Mike Hargrove contributed a two-run double and Jim Spencer hammered a two-run triple during a six-run fifth inning outburst and Texas finally provided Ferguson Jenkins with his first victory. Jenkins, the majors' co-leader in victories last year with 25 but a loser in his first two decisions this season, needed relief help from Steve Foucault.

Jack Heidemann Knows His Place in Lineup

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Jack Heidemann, a benchwarmer who makes the most of his occasional appearances in the New York infield, has no delusions about replacing Bud Harrelson at shortstop.

"If Harrelson's hand wouldn't have been hurt," said Heidemann, "I wouldn't have been in there against the Cardinals."

But Heidemann did start for the Mets Thursday, and his three-run double in the sixth inning was the blow that gave New York a 14-7 win over St. Louis. Harrelson was injured Wednesday night when Lou Brock stepped on his hand in a play at third base.

"I think Buddy is ready to play," Heidemann said. "If he is, he'll be back in the lineup Saturday against the Cubs."

Would Heidemann's heroic performance Thursday influence Manager Yogi Berra to keep his second-string shortstop in the lineup? Well, not really. Berra likes his first-string shortstop in there as often as possible.

"Heidemann will get his chances to play," said Berra. "Harrelson won't play every day, so Jack will be playing in doubleheaders and afternoon games after night games."

Heidemann's double drove in Rusty Staub, John Milner and Wayne Garrett, and Heidemann scored the 12th run when Ted Sizemore tied a major-league record for second basemen by committing his third error in the inning. With Heidemann racing home Sizemore threw the ball into the dirt in front of the plate. Heidemann, a Cardinal last season, said, "I don't know why they traded me. After they got Eddie Brinkman, I guess they just decided that Mike Tyson would stay and I would go."

Rick Baldwin, who was playing for Victoria in the AA minors last season, was the winning pitcher. Starter Jerry Koosman was knocked out of the game in the first inning. Baldwin entered the game in the fourth as the third New York pitcher, finished the game and got his first win.

Golfer Ties

9-Hole Record

HOUSTON (UPI) — University of Florida golfer Andy Bean tied a nine-hole record Thursday to take the second round lead in the All-American Intercollegiate Invitational Golf Tournament.

Bean, a senior from Lakeland, Fla., birdied five holes on the front nine to make the turn at 31 and tie a tournament record set by former AAIL champion Tom Kite. He finished with a six-under-par 66.

That .148 Swing

At the moment Bobby Bonds' batting average has fallen down into a well somewhere. Bonds is 4-for-27, and .148 for the stumbling last-place Yankees so far. The margin by which he misses the ball gives you an idea of his problems. (UPI)

When Virdon Called Bobby Bonds Answered

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Virdon asked Bobby Bonds whether he could see him a minute, to speak with him in his office privately, and Bobby Bonds said the same thing all ballplayers say whenever the manager comes over with a request like that—sure.

Managers generally talk to their players informally. Anytime they ask them to step into their private office, the players say to themselves, uh, oh, something must be wrong. Bobby Bonds knew what was wrong when Bill Virdon called him in the other day. How could he miss knowing? Some ballplayers try to create the impression they don't pay that much attention to their batting averages. They pay attention, all right, much more when the figures are higher than when they're lower.

At the moment Bobby Bonds' batting average has fallen down into a well somewhere. He's 4-for-27 and .148 for the stumbling, last-place Yankees so far, with no home runs and only two RBIs. And what makes it all the more embarrassing is that the Giants were supposed to have gotten the short end of the deal—at least that's what everybody said. But the fellow they got for Bonds, Bobby Murcer—the one who was supposed to have all kinds of trouble hitting in Candlestick Park—is up there at .345 with 10 for 29 and six RBIs.

Bill Virdon isn't concerned with Bobby Murcer any more. That wasn't why he called in Bobby Bonds for that little talk in his Shea Stadium office.

"I've seen you play over in the National League and I know you haven't been playing lately the way you normally do," said Virdon, who knows Bonds from when he managed Pittsburgh. "You're pressing."

"You're right," replied Bonds, not arguing at all. "I've never really been a fast starter, but I wanted to get off to a good one this time. I know you're looking for right-handed power and I've been trying to do too much, too quick. I know that."

"Nobody here is pushing you," Virdon reassured Bonds. "What you're trying to do is hit 80 home runs and knock in 500 runs. Don't try to be The Almighty all by yourself. Just relax and be Bobby Bonds. Nobody here is expecting you to do it all by yourself. And remember this—I'm one hundred per cent behind you."

Bobby Bonds knows that. He has a deep, genuine affection for Bill Virdon, who is as straight a manager as there is baseball today.

"I'd do anything in the world for him," says the Yankees' new right fielder. "He's an honest man. Completely honest. That's what I respect so much about him."

The poor start by Bobby Bonds wouldn't be that noticeable were it not for the fact that Catfish Hunter isn't doing any better. With the two of them dragging along the way they are, and so much expected of them, why it's naturally a source of self-consciousness, if not embarrassment, to both players as well as to the Yankee management.

Catfish Hunter knows what his problem is—he's pressing too hard. And Bobby Bonds knows what his is—the same thing.

"I was trying to lead the league in home runs the first few days," says Bonds, smiling as he says it, because after being around eight years he realizes he should know better.

Bobby Bonds wanted to hit every baseball thrown up to him over the light towers and into the middle of downtown traffic. He wanted to show the fans and everybody else that last year was a misprint, that all those stories about him with the Giants were straight out of Grimm's Fairy Tales, that the Yankees had made themselves one bull elephant of a deal.

"I've been my own worst enemy," Bonds reflects.

He's right, because 90 per cent of the balls he has hit he has pulled. He has yet to hit a ball with his usual solid authority to right center, which is his regular alley and the area he ordinarily patronizes when he's having the kind of year he did two years ago. In that 1973 season he had 39 homers and 96 RBIs for the Giants.

Bobby Bonds knows he's going to be all right; Bill Virdon knows it; the Yankees know it. But when?

Bill Virdon knows that, too. "As soon as Bobby Bonds starts being Bobby Bonds—himself, in other words—there won't be any more problem."

Day of the Birdies

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — There's an inclination to "hide the pins" when scores are unusually low in a PGA tournament, but that won't happen in the Pensacola Open.

"There's no place to hide them, the greens are too small," said a PGA official after 30 golfers shot in the 60s in Thursday's opening round. "We'll just have to hope that the greens dry out and the wind picks up."

Andy North, former University of Florida ace now in his third year as a touring pro, had a 7-under-par 64 in that opening round and still goes into today's second round with only a one stroke lead over four others.

But North wasn't complaining.

"This is the first time I ever led a tournament," he said. "I usually make my money (about $120,000 in 27 months) by shooting well in the third and fourth rounds. I always play better toward the end of a tournament. Don't ask me why. That's the way I played as an amateur and I haven't changed."

North needed an unusual—for him fast start to stick around in this tournament. If the scores are as low today as they were Thursday, it might take even par for 36 holes to make the cut.

"I don't know when I've seen these greens play easier," said Bruce Crampton who has been playing here since the mid 50s. "You could afford to fire right at the flag."

Crampton opened with a 6-under-par 65 to tie for first-day runnerup honors with Charles Coody, Bert Greene and Mike Wynn.

"The greens here are so flat," said Coody, "that any time your approach shot is within 25 feet of the cup, you are putting for birdies."

The top five had 31 birdies between them Thursday, and Crampton and Coody also had eagles.

"This is my type of course," said Wynn, never better than his fifth place finish in St. Louis in 1973. "The course is shorter and tighter and I can play it."

But Wynn was quick to add: "you still have to hit the ball good. There's no such thing as an easy golf course. You still have to place the ball on the right side of the fairway to hit to the flag."

Most of the big names in golf skipped this $125,000 tour stop which sits right in the middle of last week's Masters and next week's Tournament of Champions.

Only two of this year's top 10 money winners are on hand. Bob Murphy, the No. 4 man, had a 69 Thursday and John Mahaffey, No. 10, had a 68.

Parent Solves Cup Problems

By United Press International

Bernie Parent has come up with the perfect way to help the Philadelphia Flyers win another Stanley Cup.

His formula is not only good, it's simple. Shutouts.

Parent made it two in a row Thursday night when the Flyers whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0 and took a 3-0 lead in games in their NHL quarterfinal playoff.

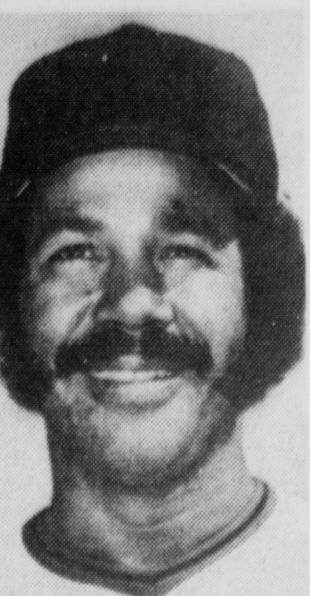

Last year, when Philadelphia became the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup, Parent was selected as the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs.

He has started off toward a repeat performance this spring by shutting out the Maple Leafs in successive games after allowing three goals in the opener.

Parent, required to stop just 13 shots in his previous shutout of the Leafs, stopped 31 Thursday night and said, "I think I anticipated well and played all their shots."

"Parent was the big factor," said Coach Red Kelly of Toronto.

Added Gordie McRae, the Toronto goalie: "Parent was the key and naturally when you get a shutout you're playing very well."

JUAN MARICHAL

Juan Marichal Calls It Quits

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Juan Marichal knew it was time to quit and Thursday he did just that.

Marichal, the one-time Dodgers' Enemy No. 1, donned a Los Angeles uniform earlier this season as a free agent on a 30-day trial basis after playing for Boston last year.

"I think I was prepared for this," said the 36-year-old highkicking former San Francisco Giant hurler. "Any time you prepare yourself for something, you feel better about it. It's better to retire before people retire you. You have to make that decision before somebody else makes it for you."

Marichal's decision came the day after he was pulled from the mound after giving up seven hits and four runs in less than three innings against Cincinnati. It was the second time he was relieved in a game after joining the Dodgers a month ago.

At that time, he had decided he would quit if he couldn't perform well.

"I worked hard to get in shape but when you get to my age, it's tougher," he said. "I would really like to have pitched for the Dodgers. They have a chance to win the pennant and I would have loved to be part of it."

"But in spring training, I promised (general manager) Al Campanis and I promised myself that if I couldn't do the job, I would get out," more Campanis said, "We feel we were right in taking a chance on him. When you are looking for a starting pitcher, you always try to obtain as many candidates as possible. Juan was a real gentleman about what has happened... I made a mistake and I'll be the first to admit it."

Marichal admitted he wasn't ready to start when he pitched against Houston and then the Reds.

"I just couldn't relax because I was trying so hard to help this club," he said.

Barry Unmoved By 14,000 'Foes'

SEATTLE (UPI) — Golden State star Rick Barry was not disturbed at all by Seattle's home-court advantage in the NBA playoffs Thursday night.

"Sure the fans are a factor," said Barry after the Warriors' 105-96 victory. "You know when you're playing well you're spoiling 14,000 people's evenings."

And Barry was playing well. His 13-for-21 field goal shooting and 33 points were instrumental in helping the Warriors to a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven quarterfinal series.

The game was close throughout, with the teams never separated by more than eight points and only one or two baskets apart most of the way.

The intensity was so great in the opening minutes that several faceoffs threatened to erupt until official Manny Sokol called a time out in the first quarter to warn coaches and players the next player who put up his fists would be thrown out of the game.

The fight threats subsided but the game remained intensely physical.

The Warriors, who played a strong defensive game, didn't manage to take the lead for good until Barry flipped passes to teammates in the last quarter to break an 80-80 tie.

"Defensively, we prevented the weak side pass to the strong side," Warrior Coach Al Attles said. "George Johnson and Charlie Johnson gave us a big lift. Derrek Dickey was particularly good on the boards and broke loose for some layups."

Charlie Johnson registered 24 points, only one less than Sonic high scorer Tommy Burleson, who had 25.

Even though the next game between Seattle and Golden State, which will be televised nationally, will be played Saturday in Seattle, Attles is sitting pretty now.

"The important thing is that we'll have the home court advantage once again," he said.

Sonic coach Bill Russell, who said his team should have won because the Warriors playing at their pace, said Seattle would "try to make a few adjustments."

There are two quarterfinal games scheduled for tonight, Washington, with a 2-1 lead in games, is at Buffalo and Chicago, also leading 2-1, is at Kansas City. Boston, with a 2-0 lead, is in Houston Saturday.

Greenbacks Retain SAA Girls 'A' Lead

SAUGERTIES

Greenbacks, who trailed until the final shot at the buzzer, nipped Maximus Super 20-18 in the A Division of the SAA Girls Basketball League. Shelly Pfeil's jump shot was in mid-air when the final buzzer sounded to give the Greenbacks a comeback victory that gave them a commanding two-game lead over Maximus with two games to play.

Shelly, a 13-year-old scoring whiz, canned six of her 14 points in the fourth quarter when Greenbacks registered a 10-1 margin to salvage the game. Aline Bernier led Super with seven points.

It was the 18th consecutive victory over a two-year span for the Greenbacks, as they moved toward their second straight A Division championship. They are now 8-0 with Maximus 6-2.

Oldies picked up a forfeit win to retain the B Division lead with 6 wins and 2 losses. The second-place Gunjah Warriorettes (5-3) whipped the Happy Hookers 18-4. Shake, Rattle and Roll's game was postponed. The Buckwheats forfeited to the Oldies when they came up one player short.

Patty Melville sparked the win with five points. Donna Myer and Sue Dunn dunked four each. Joanne Lyman tallied three and Gail Hall hit for two. Julie Harder and Ann Miron recorded the Hooker buckets.

B Division—Oldies 6-2, Gunjah Warriorettes 5-3, Shake, Rattle and Roll 3-4, Alpha Cement 2-5, Happy Hookers 1-7, Buckwheats 0-8.

The Players and NFL: 'Productive Talks'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A possible settlement of the long dispute between the pro football players and the owners shaped up slightly today with both sides agreeing to resume bargaining talks next week.

James Searce, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said an all-day session between spokesmen for the NFL Players Association and the NFL Management Council representing the owners Thursday was "productive." He announced that the union and owners had agreed to set up subcommittees which would resume discussions Monday or Tuesday.

The sessions would be the first formal reopening of negotiations between the union and the owners since last summer when the players called off a 42-day strike which disrupted the pre-season schedule and went to camp without a contract.

Searce called the two disputing sides together Thursday after the players association announced this month that its demands were being whittled down, including many of the so-called "freedom issues" which played a major role in the strike. Among the demands jettisoned were those involving player curfews and fines.

But the union also declared that the controversial "Rozelle rule" allowing the commissioner to set compensation if a player plays out his option and goes to another team was no longer a negotiable issue and should be settled in the courts. The management council strongly disputed the claim in a statement released in

New York Thursday.

The players association said that recent federal court rulings against the "Rozelle rule" and a suit now in progress amounted to a "yellow caution light" against retention of the present system.

The NFL Council, in its statement, told the union: "We do not see how the subject matter of player retention and movement can be eliminated from bargaining...the entire subject of player retention and movement—whether after a player is drafted, while he is under contract, or after an option payout—must be resolved in collective bargaining."

The council urged again that the union accept its offer that "the Rozelle rule method of determining compensation be replaced by a final offer selection, with the commissioner choosing between the two final offers by the clubs involved...the concept of option compensation must be retained (but) we are prepared to bargain further on the procedures to be followed if the two clubs involved cannot agree."

The management statement also claimed that the players' money demands call for an increase of more than $27 million annually above 1973. According to the owners "the benefits and levels (now) suggested by the union would cost the clubs more than $40 million annually, whereas the collectively-bargained items in 1973 cost about $12,853,000."

WFL Players Ready to Yield

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Former pro quarterback Kim Hammond, now an attorney, says most of the players owed money by World Football League are in the mood for compromise in order to get the WFL going again.

The new WFL recently sent release-from-liability agreements to the former players promising to pay less than 15 per cent of the debt by April 30 and to pay the balance with 6 per cent interest over the next six years.

Hammond said Thursday most of the players he had talked with "felt we should compromise" and signed the agreements.

"Some felt that 15 per cent was a very small percentage of what they are owed but they're willing to gamble that the league will be a success," he said.

Inn, DeMicco's YMCA Winners

KINGSTON

Boiceville Inn was shut out at the free throw line in a 80-58 loss to Acker's Bar in the YMCA "A" Basketball League. In a companion game, DeMicco Motors led all the way to down Smitty's 87-71.

Jerry Hawkins (25) and Dave Kane (23) were top guns in the Acker victory. Jim Alba added 14 points and 17 rebounds. Vic Gold led Boiceville with 20 points. Shawn Carey had 18 and John Hoyt 14.

DeMicco's led Smitty's 44-29 in the first half to build up its working margin. Jim Ferraro rimmed 24 and John Tucker 22 points for the winners. Ed Priest and Mike Colao had a dozen apiece.

Rich Cicio paced Smitty's with 20 and Steve Mihic contributed 14.

Laver Upset Again

DENVER (UPI) — Ismail El Shafei of Egypt says he always seems to play his best tennis against Australian Rod Laver. El Shafei rallied Thursday night from a 2-4 deficit in the second set for a 7-6, 7-5 upset of the second-seeded Laver to advance into today's quarter-finals of the World Championship of Tennis Blue Group tournament.

In the only other second-round match, sixth-seeded Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., knocked off Colin Dibley of Australia 7-6, 6-1.

In today's quarterfinals, El Shafei faces eighth-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile; Gottfried plays third-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico; fourth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y., meets Sandy Mayer of Flushing, N.Y.; and Jimmy Connors plays Brazilian Thomaz Koch.

The Laver-El Shafei match was a tight one, with the Egyptian winning the opening set tiebreaker 7-6 score, with the final point coming on Laver's serve. El Shafei also broke Laver's serve in the second set at match point after the Australian led 4-2.

"I feel the only way I can stay with him is to play the best I can, so I try and concentrate more and move as well as I can," said El Shafei, who has won four of nine matches with Laver.

Myers Hurls 3-Hitter In KHS Softball Win

SPACKENKILL

Barbara Myers pitched a 3-hitter and fanned nine to pace Kingston High to a 19-3 rout of Spackenkill High in the DCSL Softball League opener Wednesday. All three Spackenkill runs were unearned and Kingston outlived the losers 18-3.

Barbara's batterymate — Mary Ellen Duffy — caught a solid game and shared hitting honors with June Miller with four hits each. Each had a double and Mary Ellen caught three runs. The Maroons exploded for nine runs in the first inning.

Ertha Burris had a single and double, knocked in two runs and scored four. Lori Eaton and Ann Gaffney also collected two hits, with Eaton and Sandy Mancuso knocking in two runs apiece.

From SHS Trackmen: Toast To Coach Smith

SAUGERTIES High hosted Poughkeepsie and Red Hook Thursday in a double dual track meet that had its historical moments. While Saugerties swept the opposition, beating the Pioneers, 102-47 and the Raiders, 102-48, three records fell, and Sawyer coach Bud Smith became a grandfather for the first time.

Ron Foote turned in the best performance of the day, going 21-7 1/2 to win the long jump. The distance was a new Sawyer record, snapping the old mark set by Rich Giannotti in 1963 by six inches.

Saugerties also got a new record from Rich Myers who won the mile walk in 8:48.9. That is a new event this year.

Red Hook's Scott Burud was also a record breaker as he cleared 12-4 in the pole vault for a new Raider standard.

OCS Checks Sawyers In Tennis Match, 4-1

SAUGERTIES The Saugerties High tennis team goes to Catskill today in search of its first win on the non-league trail. Thursday the Sawyers dropped their second match against Onteroa and third of the young season, 4-1.

The return bout bore little resemblance to the 3-2 win OCS posted in Boiceville. Saugerties took the first two singles battles in that one, but this time only the Sawyer doubles pair of Ken Del Rosario and Chuck Rosenberger managed a victory.

Onteroa's Conrad Earnest got the winners off on the right foot by avenging his previous loss to Daryl Jones with an 8-1 triumph.

"Daryl was off his game this time, and Conrad looked like he was on his," said Sawyer coach Jack Welton.

And also getting even was Dave Scherbarth who outlasted Andy Stoll, 11-9. Bob Berkeley handled Bob Vogel, 8-3, to give the Indians a sweep of the singles.

After Del Rosario and Rosenberger clipped Bill Harder and Russ Houldin, 8-6, Matt Earnest and Ben Hill of OCS whipped Frank Blundell and Bob Carpenter, 8-3.

Coleman Tops Ellies In UCAL Tennis, 2-0

KINGSTON Coleman High rebounded from a loss in the opening singles to post a 4-1 win over Ellenville here Thursday and improved its UCAL tennis record to 2-0.

Dave Cooper scored the win for the Ellies, beating Statesman John Farrell, 8-0. From then on, however, it was all Coleman.

Pete Lyle topped Harris Marcus, 8-6, and Paul Lyle defeated Jane Rosenstock, 8-2. In the doubles, Kevin Kenyon and Jeff Bubnack stopped Rich Bradford and Stew Eckart, 8-5, and Geoff Grayson and Bill Knott prevailed over Elliot Foo and Brian Kunst, 8-4.

In another UCAL battle, Liberty advanced to 1-1 on the year with a 4-1 victory over Red Hook.

Mike McCarty and Bill Hulse picked up singles wins for the Redskins with McCarty beating Ted Dewsnap, 8-1 and Hulse downing Tom Griffen, 8-5. Steve Sprague and Jeff Hirsch won 8-5 over Bill Hogan and Greg Hanson, and Herb Grund and Mike Wack were 8-5 winners over Dan Zaloga and Pat O'Farrell for a Liberty sweep of the doubles.

Greg Martin captured the third singles for Red Hook with an 8-3 victory over Larry Epstein.

Vote For Funds

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — After months of uncertainty, the West Virginia Legislature last weekend voted to appropriate funds for a National Track and Field Hall of Fame.

The legislature agreed to give $852,500 in state money for construction of a permanent Hall of Fame complex at a site to be selected in Charleston. The hall operates from temporary headquarters. Its inductees so far include Jesse Owens, Wilma Rudolph, Jim Thorpe and Glenn Cunningham.

Rondout Zips Walkkill, 3-0

WALLKILL Rondout Valley, favored by many to repeat this year as Ulster County Athletic League baseball champions, took the first step in that direction Thursday by defeating host Walkkill, 3-0 behind a one-hitter by Jay Schaeffer in the UCAL's first game of the season.

The Ganders, a good hitting club, had to face a challenge in the Panthers' Mike Mercado, and while Mercado only gave up five hits in the six frames he worked, three came in clutch situations and drove in RVC runs.

Tom Barry cracked an RBI single in the third inning to open the scoring. That was all Schaeffer needed, but Jeff Purcell chased Dave Schmeltz home in the fifth, and Todd Buswell tripled and scored on Kevin Van Wagenen's single in the sixth for insurance. Don Horn relieved Mercado who finished with eight strikeouts and four walks. Schaeffer, touched for only Ed Torres' single, struck out six and walked three.

Date: April 18, 1975

Notice of Application for NPDES

Permit and Notice of Consideration for State Certification.

Notice is hereby given that the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has received a complete application (No. NY003928) from the Village of

Saugerties, P.O. Box 96, Partition

Street, Saugerties, New York (the Applicant) for a National Pollutant

Discharge Elimination System

(NPDES) permit to discharge effluents into navigable waters under the Federal Water Pollution Control

Act amendments of 1972, 33 U.S.C. Code

Sections 1251-1376 (the Act), and the

New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) has been requested to certify the discharge in accordance with the provisions of Section 401 of the Act (33 U.S.C. Section 1341). The applicant provides primary treatment and disinfection of sanitary wastewater at the Ripley Street Sewage Treatment Plant located in Saugerties, New York. The treatment plant is designed to treat and discharge an average flow of 0.52 million gallons per day (MGD). The current average discharge is approximately 0.45 MGD.

LEGAL NOTICE

Treated effluent is discharged through a single outfall line (Discharge No. 002) into Esopus Creek. This facility is scheduled to be abandoned and all sewage flows conveyed to the proposed upgraded/expanded Dock Street Sewage Treatment Plant when operable.

On the basis of preliminary review and application of lawful standards and regulations, NYSDEC proposes to certify and the Region II staff of EPA proposes to issue a permit to the Applicant subject to certain effluent limitations and other conditions necessary to carry out the provisions of the Act. These proposed determinations are tentative.

Interested persons may submit written comments on the tentative determinations to the Chief, Permits Administration Branch, EPA, Region II, at the above address no later than May 19, 1975.

In lieu of, or in addition to, the submission of comments as above provided, any interested person may request that the Regional Administrator of the EPA hold an informal public hearing to consider the permit application, and/or the tentative determinations with respect thereto, and/or may request that the Commissioner of the NYSDEC hold a hearing regarding the certification of the proposed discharge.

Any request for a public hearing under 6 NYCRR 608.16 regarding NYSDEC's certification of the proposed discharge should be in writing and submitted to: Chief, P.D.E.S. Permit Section, Bureau of Standards and Compliance, Division of Pure Waters, NYSDEC, at the above address with a copy of the request to than May 19, 1975. The period for submitting comments may be extended if the public interest warrants. A copy of the draft NPDES permit and other available information, including certification materials, may be obtained by mail from the Permits Administration Branch, EPA, Region II, at the above address, or by calling (212) 264-9881, or in person between 8:00 A.M. and 4:30 P.M., Monday through Friday. Copies will be provided at a charge of $20 per copy sheet.

In lieu of, or in addition to, the submission of comments as above provided, any interested person may request that the Regional Administrator of the EPA hold an informal public hearing to consider the permit application, and/or the tentative determinations with respect thereto, and/or may request that the Commissioner of the NYSDEC hold a hearing regarding the certification of the proposed discharge.

Any request for a public hearing under 6 NYCRR 608.16 regarding NYSDEC's certification of the proposed discharge should be in writing and submitted to: Chief, P.D.E.S. Permit Section, Bureau of Standards and Compliance, Division of Pure Waters, NYSDEC, at the above address with a copy of the request to the Permits Administration Branch, EPA, Region II at the above address, no later than May 19, 1975. Any request for an informal public hearing under 40 Code of Federal Regulations Section 125.34 to consider the permit application and/or EPA's tentative determinations with respect thereto, must meet the requirements of the cited Regulations, be in writing, and be submitted to the Permits Administration Branch, EPA, Region II, at the above address, with a copy of the request to the Chief P.D.E.S. Permit Section, NYSDEC, at the above address, no later than May 19, 1975.

If NYSDEC orders that a public hearing be held regarding its certification, and the Regional Administrator of EPA, Region II has also ordered an informal public hearing, the hearings will be held jointly by NYSDEC and EPA. If no informal public hearing has been ordered by the Regional Administrator, NYSDEC may itself hold a public hearing regarding its certification.

The Regional Administrator will consider the issuance of a final permit to the Applicant as soon as possible after the date indicated above for the submission of comments or after a public hearing. All comments timely submitted by interested persons in response to this notice, and statements and other evidence properly submitted at any hearing held will be considered by the Regional Administrator in the formulation of his final determinations with respect to the application for a permit.

The Applicant and any person who submits written comments will receive a copy of the Regional Administrator's final determinations. Within 10 days of the receipt of such copy any interested person may request an adjudicatory hearing to consider the permit and its conditions. Any such request must meet the requirements of 40 Code of Federal Regulations 125.36 (Federal Register, July 24, 1974 pp. 27081-84).

EPA's decision on the question of whether to hold any hearing, formal or informal, the administration of any hearing, and the rights and obligations of participants therein are governed by NPDES Regulations (40 Code of Federal Regulations 125).

Johnson Found Guilty

KINGSTON

Following approximately three hours of deliberations Thursday night, an Ulster County jury found Anthony (Rocky) Johnson, 23, of 50 VanBuren Street, guilty of second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument.

Judge Raymond J. Mino, who presided in the trial which opened on Tuesday, set May 21 as the date for sentencing. Johnson faces a mandatory prison sentence due to a prior felony conviction, according to Assistant District Attorney Paul Gruner, who prosecuted the case.

Johnson was accused of the alleged possession of a forged Social Security check in the amount of $87.15 last year. He was represented by attorney Barry Lippman.

Correction

Captain Richard B. Skala, candidate for the Kingston City Schools Consolidated Board of Education is a 25-year resident of Lake Katrine, not 25 years of age as previously reported. He is an airline pilot with Overseas National Airways and lives with his wife and three children on Neighborhood Road in Lake Katrine.

Francis Churchwell

Francis W. (Fritz) Churchwell Sr., 55, of RD 4 Box 478, Kingston, died at Albany Veterans Hospital Thursday evening following a long illness. He was born in Kerhonkson a son of Rose Krom Churchwell and the late Elting Churchwell, and had resided at the Kingston address for the past 25 years. An army veteran of World War 2, he served with Headquarters Battery, 399th Armored Field Artillery Battalion and received many citations for his meritorious service. Mr. Churchwell was a member of Rosendale-Tilston Post 1219 American Legion; a member of Bloomingville Fire Co. Prior to his retirement due to ill health, he had owned and operated a refuse service throughout the Towns of Rosendale and Marlborough. Surviving are his wife, Viola Barley Churchwell; three sons: Francis Jr., Bruce and Vernon Churchwell; a daughter, Beverly Churchwell all at home; his mother, Rose Krom Churchwell of Kerhonkson; a brother, Raymond Churchwell of Kerhonkson; five sisters: Mrs. Percy (Dorothy) Alexander of Kingston, Mrs. Henry (Grace) Furman of Napanoch, Mrs. Charles (Susie) Kelsey, Mrs. George (Katherine) Kohloff, Mrs. Robert (Blanch) Warg, all of Kerhonkson; several uncles, nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Stone Ridge, Monday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Nicholas Miles, pastor of the United Reformed Church of Rosendale, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Stone Ridge. Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday and Sunday 2-4 and 7-9.

Check Theft

KINGSTON — Ulster County sheriff's deputies charged a young Kingston man with second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument — an allegedly stolen U. S. Treasury check — on Thursday.

George Pryor, 24, of 79 Franklin Street was arrested following an investigation by Deputy Charles Broadhead. Pryor was picked up by deputies and Kingston police at about noon in the city.

Taken before Ulster Town Justice Sherwood E. Davis, Pryor was jailed in lieu of $500 bail on the felony charge.

The check involved was an Army Reserve payroll check in the amount of $176, reported missing from a mailbox, deputies said.

South Rejects Free Insurance

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Some forms of declarer insurance are easy to take out. In fact there is no cost involved.
When today's hand was played, South had no interest at all in insurance. West opened the ace of clubs and continued with the queen.

South played dummy's king without a moment's hesitation. East ruffed, but this didn't worry South. He over-ruffed, ran off a few rounds of trumps and led a diamond.

When West showed out, he did stop for some prolonged and fruitless study. There was no way left for him to collect 12 tricks.

He was mighty unlucky indeed. West didn't really need an eight-card suit for his non-vulnerable preempt and diamonds don't always break
4-0, but he had a free insurance policy at his disposal.

All he had to do at trick two was to play dummy's nine of clubs instead of the king.

East could ruff or do anything that his fancy told him, but South would have had no worries. He would be sure of 12 tricks provided he remembered to draw trumps before putting in his claim.

Evacuation of Americans From Saigon Is Continuing

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy, which has stepped up its program to evacuate nonessential Americans from Saigon, today began burning what it called "nonessential" papers, the embassy reported. Both moves resulted from the growing military threat to Saigon.

A squad of Communist commandos attacked South Vietnam's major communications center only five miles from the heart of Saigon today but was driven back before it could inflict damage. Another group unsuccessfully attacked the Long Binh army base 14 miles northeast of Saigon during the night.

Gen. Frederick Weyand, the U.S. Army chief of staff, reported Thursday the North Vietnamese were moving SAM missiles into the Saigon area and called the situation in South Vietnam "precarious." There were indications North Vietnam was moving more troops toward the threatened capital.

With the embassy speeding up its evacuation of Americans, Manila reports said the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Enterprise and an escort vessel broke off a five-day good will visit today and left Subic Bay after a stay of only one hour.

Both the Navy and the embassy refused to comment on speculation the carrier, the world's largest ship, had been ordered to South Vietnamese waters for any emergency largescale evacuation of Americans.

Edward J. Heine, Jr., president of the United States Lines, said in New York that two of his cargo ships were standing by in Saigon harbor ready to evacuate American and Vietnamese civilians and that a third vessel will soon be en route.

Embassy sources said the papers being burned did not include codebooks or other vital information, but were clashing documents no longer considered essential to the embassy's function.

Earlier in the day, American and South Vietnamese officials began a new program designed to cut through Vietnamese red tape and expedite the evacuation of an estimated 3,000 Americans and their Vietnamese families. Embassy officials said Americans on official missions also have been barred from entering Vietnam to keep from adding to the problem.

Meanwhile, Congress appears willing to give President Ford much of the humanitarian aid he wants for South Vietnam, but far less military aid than he sought — if any.

And Congress isn't going to meet his Saturday deadline for the aid requests.

An unresolved dispute over what some senators consider to be too slow a rate of evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam could further delay funds for evacuation operations and other humanitarian purposes.

Nevertheless, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Thursday that the White House was "pleased" with the progress Congress was making. President Ford said in a speech

Wednesday he did not intend to hold Congress strictly to his April 19 time limit.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee called a meeting later today and hoped to get word from the administration that the departure of Americans from Saigon is being speeded up. Failing such assurances, the committee is withholding a final recommendation for $200 million in evacuation and humanitarian aid funds.

In the House, the International Relations Committee was meeting to hear Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on the South Vietnamese situation. Thursday, the committee recommended 18-7 to provide $327 million in humanitarian and evacuation funds. Congressional sources said that if the White House can assure the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the evacuation of Americans is being accelerated, the way will be clear for Congress to provide President Ford with $200 million or more of the $250 million in humanitarian aid he requested.

But Chairman Edward Morgan of the House International Relations Committee said he did not expect his committee's measure to be brought to the House floor before next Tuesday.

The House Armed Services Committee was meeting to discuss the possibility of providing some of the $722 million in military aid Ford requested.

The Senate Armed Services Committee Thursday killed a variety of proposals for additional amounts of military aid for Saigon.

That left the question of military aid still hanging. Chairman John C. Stennis said Congress last year authorized $1 billion in military aid for South Vietnam through June 30, but only appropriated $700 million. Theoretically, the House and Senate Appropriations committees could appropriate the $300 million which has been authorized but not appropriated so far.

But Rep. George Mahon,

DTex., chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee, where such action would have to begin, has yet to convene his panel or take any positive action.

Fighting Breaks Out in Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Fighting has broken out in three locations in Laos between rightist forces and pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops backed by North Vietnamese Forces, Defense Minister Sisouk Na Champassak said today.

Sisouk told a news conference that the fighting began Monday about 100 miles north of here when the Communist troops overran five government positions.

The defense minister said there was also fighting in two other locations in south and central Laos.

"I don't know if it is a North Vietnamese or Pathet Lao initiative and what they are pushing for," Sisouk said. "But these are flagrant violations of the ceasefire agreement which I strongly condemn."

Sisouk said at least 15,000 North Vietnamese troops were confronting government troops throughout the country, in addition to another 35,000 North Vietnamese forces who are guarding the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos.

Sisouk said he had protested the fighting to Deputy Prime Minister Phoumi Vongvichit, the ranking Pathet Lao member of the coalition government, who sent an inquiry to the Pathet Lao headquarters in eastern Laos.

Sisouk quoted Phoumi as saying he had no control over Pathet Lao troops outside the administrative capital of Vientiane and the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Both are neutralized cities under the Laos peace agreement.

The defense minister said fighting broke out near the two government towns of Phou Soung and Mok Lang Chang, in the mountains about six miles east of Highway 13, which connects Vientiane and Luang Prabang, about 100 miles to the north.

Within two days the Communist troops, armed with artillery, rockets and mortars, overran five government positions in the area, killing two government soldiers, he said. The Communists advanced to only one mile from Highway 13, as government forces retreated, he said.

"We shall protect Highway 13 at all costs," Sisouk said.

The defense minister said the reports of the fighting in southern and central Laos were sketchy but that it appeared to be taking place east of Savannakhet and south of Pakse.

'Time to Look Ahead' ...Henry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, virtually writing off Indochina, says it's time for America to look ahead and help bring about a "new order" in world affairs.

Kissinger addressed several hundred members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors who the day before heard President Ford give a buoyant view of America's future after disasters in Cambodia and Vietnam.

"The Vietnam debate has now run its course," Kissinger said. "The time has come for restraint and compassion. The administration has made its case. Let all now abide by the verdict of the Congress — without recrimination or vindictiveness."

Noting the "enormous prestige" of the tens of thousands of Americans killed and the $150 billion spent in Indochina, Kissinger made a seeming last appeal for more military and humanitarian aid for Vietnam. But said the will of Congress would be followed no matter what.

In his 38-minute address, the secretary did not once mention Cambodia, which capitulated to the Communists only hours before he spoke.

But in reference to Indochina as a whole, he said that whether American involvement was well conceived "does not now change the picture of our problem. When an effort founders, it is an event of profound significance — for ourselves and others."

"Let us therefore look to the future," he said.

"Our major allies in the Atlantic world and Japan have grown in strength politically and economically; our alliances are firm anchors of world security and prosperity. They are the basis for close cooperation on a range of unprecedented new problems — from detente to energy."

Ford plans a trip next month to a Brussels NATO conference and later to Peking. Soviet Leader Leonid Brezhnev is coming to Washington for a summit meeting in the fall.

"Let it begin here!"

There were about fifty of them: farmers mostly, small tradesmen, shopkeepers, blacksmiths, coopers and tavern keepers. They formed an irregular line across the village green of a little place called Lexington. Armed with an odd assortment of firearms, they faced two companies of British Regulars, armed to the teeth, and drawn up in battle array. A British major rode forward and angrily told the villagers to disperse.

John Parker, captain of the Minute-men, spoke quietly to his men. "Stand your ground, men. Hold your fire until fired upon. If they mean to have a war — let it begin here."

It began there, just as the sun rose on a fine spring morning — two hundred years ago. It began there and then — at Lexington, on April 19, 1775. It continued until April 19, 1783 when the Americans finished what the British had begun exactly eight years before. A day to remember. A thing to remember.
